Temper and Caution Are Near Breaking Point in England While Cabinet Maps Course in Attacks.

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG JR.

(Copyright, 1937, by United Press.)
LONDON, Sept. 2.—Great Britain and France, clearing the decks of their mightiest warships for action, tonight declared open war on "submarine pirates" in the Mediterranean after the torpedoing and sinking of the British freighter Woodford.
Only 12 hours after an attempt by a mystery submarine—openly suspected of being Italian—to sink the British destroyer Havock off the Spanish coast, the Woodford was sunk by a U-boat near the same spot.
The freighter sank almost immediately, carrying to death Second Engineer Meletius Zoras. Nine others of the crew of 32 were wounded.
Later the Russian cargo steamer Molangoyeff was reported to have been sunk in Greek waters by an unidentified "pirate" submarine. A Russian sailor was reported killed.
The Molangoyeff, which is not listed in Lloyd's register, was said to have been en route to France with a cargo of bitumen when she was attacked between the islands of Skyrros and Psara.
The submarine was reported to have fired a warning torpedo after which the crew abandoned ship and took to their life boats. A second torpedo sank the ship and a third struck one of the life boats killing a sailor, reports said.
The survivors were reported to

These Guards Stripped of Clothing by Convict Captors in Flight

In the picture on the left are the two Banks county convict guards who were kidnapped by seven escaping prisoners yesterday afternoon. They are Lamar Gordon, right, and Ted Wood, who were released near Commerce after the prisoners had removed their clothing. The guards were given clothes by the prisoners and then returned to camp late yesterday afternoon. In the picture on the right is shown Bill Yates, life term, driver of the truck when the break was made. He was forced from the driver's seat and told to return to camp. He did, and it was he who reported the escape. He is pictured in the abandoned truck. Seven fugitives were still at large early this morning.

Wallace Hughes, Double Killer, Escapes From Pickens Gang, Believed Surrounded by Posse; Banks County Terrified.

TRUCK ABANDONED BY FUGITIVE FIVE

Delivery Leaders Compel Dozen Negroes to Return to Camp; Captive Pair Set Free Unhurt.

Seven Banks county convicts yesterday afternoon kidnaped two guards, commandeered a county truck and last night were roaming the north Georgia hills fully armed.

Meanwhile, in another mountain county in the northwest, a posse of 50 men was trailing Wallace Hughes, Atlanta double killer, who fled a Pickens county road gang under a hail of bullets.
Hughes, listed in Atlanta police files as Wallace Hughes Jennings, killed two men in a Luckie street cafe here in 1933. He was captured after a spectacular chase across tops of adjoining buildings. He was reported shot by guards as he escaped yesterday and is believed cornered near the scene of his break.

Break After Lunch

The mass delivery in Banks county, eastern Georgia, was returning 16 convicts to resume work in a soil pit after the lunch rest period.
Five white men and two negroes actually staged the break. They forced 12 negroes on the truck with them to go along and they dumped them off and the 12 tramped four miles back to camp in their shackles.
Later, the white men forced the two negro fugitives to "get off their truck and go on their own." Still wearing shackles and prison garb, these convicts, Albert Holland and Frank King, both short termers, were believed by Banks county authorities to be roaming the wooded hill sections of the county.
Disarming the guards, Ted Wood and Lamar Gordon, both of whom have had previous trouble with prisoners, the five white men took two shotguns and two pistols. The two guards wanted to throw away their surplus ammunition without being detected by the convicts.
Raid on Homes Feared.
Fear gripped women in Banks and surrounding counties as they

SHIP SINKS IN GULF; 3 SWIM ASHORE AS BOATS HUNT 16

9 Are Rescued and Rushed to Florida Hospital; Steamer Goes Down in Storm 25 Miles at Sea.

PANAMA CITY, Fla., Sept. 2.—(P)—A coast guard rescue fleet tonight searched for approximately 16 persons cast into the sea 25 miles from land by the sinking of the steamship Tarpon.
Fourteen per cent, two of them dead, have been accounted for. Of those on the ship, 10 were white and the rest negroes.
All of the missing are negroes. The bodies of Captain W. G. Barrow and W. H. Russell, second mate, were recovered. Seven white survivors and a negro were landed at Pensacola by the coast guard cutter Triton. They were lifted from wreckage by small vessels and transferred to the cutter.
F. C. O'Connor, general freight agent for the owner of the vessel, said "about 19" negroes were aboard.
The Tarpon plunged downward in rough water early yesterday, giving little time for the crew to escape or don life preservers.
Addley Baker stumbled up the beach early today and gave first word of the sinking of the craft. He had been in the water 25 hours. Hours later two exhausted negroes, so weak they could not give their names, swam to the beach. One

HOUSING MEASURE OKAYED BY F. D. R.

All Business Disposed of, President Sails on Five-Day Fishing Excursion.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Sept. 2.—(P)—President Roosevelt disposed of all remaining congressional business today, had his fishing togs packed, and embarked from here at 3:25 p. m. (Atlanta time) on the yacht Potomac for five days of his favorite sport in eastern New York waters.
His course tonight lay down the cliff-bordered Hudson, around Manhattan and into the East river and Long Island sound.
Tomorrow he will elect to fish or watch the six-meter sailing races off Oyster bay.
Announces Action.
Before leaving his mother's estate at Hyde Park to motor the half-dozen miles to the Poughkeepsie dock, the President announced:
1. Approval of the $526,000,000 Wagner-Steagall bill authorizing loans and grants to local housing corporations to clear slums and build low-rent housing units for low income groups.
2. Signing of the senate bill authorizing a government monopoly in helium production and revising regulations to permit export of this non-inflammable gas to foreign countries for commercial or medical use and under strict stipulations none would be used for military purposes.
3. Approval of the bill authorizing federal aid to states for wild life restoration projects, the money to come from a fund equal to taxes collected on firearms and ammunition.

TRUCK KILLS BOY AT TRAFFIC LIGHT

George Neely, 9, Darts Into Side of Vehicle; Witnesses Clear Driver.

George Clifford Neely, 9, of 1500 Murphy avenue, S. W., was killed yesterday afternoon as he hurried across Lee street in front of the main entrance of Fort McPherson, trying to make a traffic light, and ran into the side of a moving truck.
Witnesses said the child darted across the busy thoroughfare as the light changed and successfully crossed the northbound traffic lane before running into the side of a southbound truck driven by Iman Shells, 35-year-old negro, of R. F. D. No. 1, College Park.
Crushed Under Wheel.
One of the truck's rear wheels ran over the boy and he was pronounced dead on arrival at the fort hospital. Physicians said death was due to head injuries.
Neely's death marks the first traffic fatality in the city limits this month and the thirty-first since January 1.

Two Killers, Four Burglars Seek Chance To Visit Governor Harley's Cod Fish Haven; Amend Petitions for Freedom To Include Out-of-State Condition.

Convicts whispered of "Massachusetts parole" yesterday as a new key to freedom from Georgia chain gangs.

LEE MILES KILLED IN AIR RACE TEST

Speed Flyer Dies as Wing of Ship Is Ripped Off; Plane Crashes on Field.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 2.—(P)—Lee Miles, of Fort Worth, Texas, speed flyer, was killed late today on the eve of the opening of the national air races tomorrow when he tore off a wing and crashed his special racer on a test flight at Cleveland airport.
His ship crashed from an altitude of 200 feet at 7 p. m. Atlanta time, it was announced at the administration building of the Cleveland airport.
Miles' body was pulled from the wreckage of his ship about a half-hour after the crash. His plane did not burn.
Miles Famous Racer.
Miles, a figure in the American air racing game for many years, was rounding a pylon at the north end of the field at low altitude in his speedy little ship when, spectators said, one wing was sheared off by the tremendous buffeting of the wind, and the machine plummeted into a grove of trees adjoining the airport.
Miles was entered in the Greve trophy race over a 150-mile closed course on Sunday.
Only yesterday, Miles flew to South Bend, Ind., to get a new carburetor for an airplane which was going to compete against his in the air races. The carburetor was replaced on Sunday.

DEEP RIFT IS SEEN IN COUNTY BOARD

Longino Charges New Jobs Are Being Created as 'Purely Political Move'

A rift in the apparently harmonious functioning of the Fulton county commission far deeper than any commissioner cared to admit publicly yesterday was indicated by political undercurrents set in motion by Commissioner George F. Longino's charge of "politics" in the creation of two new clerical positions in the office of the county ordinary.
In a scathing statement issued yesterday, Longino, chairman of public works, asserted that creation of the jobs in Wednesday's commission meeting was "purely a political move."
"I can see no other reason for the appointments than payment of a political debt," he said.
Surprise Expressed.
Meanwhile, other commissioners expressed surprise at Longino's statement and denied that any element of politics had entered in their granting the request for more help in Ordinary T. H. Jeffries' office.
"I was very surprised at Mr. Longino's statement," Commissioner Edwin T. Johnson said. "I voted for granting the request for more help not for any political reasons, but because I believed that the ordinary needed the men. The county auditor's report showed that the office was behind in its work, and I will continue to

ALL AFL IS ASKED TO AID PORT STRIKE

Green Believes San Francisco Teamsters Hold Upper Hand in Feud.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 2.—(P)—The American Federation of Labor's executive council asked all loyal unions today to help the truck drivers in their fight against Harry Bridges' CIO longshoremen in San Francisco.
The truck drivers' picket lines have practically isolated the San Francisco waterfront from inland commerce.
Daniel J. Tobin, a council member and president of the truck drivers' union, told reporters tonight the controversy was "really a question of whether Bridges and his organization will take control of the whole labor movement on the west coast."
"Fight for Businessmen."
"This is a fight to protect not only the American Federation of Labor but honest businessmen on the coast as well," he added.
The council adjourned tonight after meeting nearly two weeks. Most of its time was devoted to preparing its annual report to the AFL convention to meet October 4 in Denver.
Discussing the San Francisco situation, Green said the AFL never had given the International Longshoremen's Association, of which Bridges' organization is a rebel offshoot, the right to take in inland warehousemen.
Right Not Claimed.
Joseph Ryan, president of I.L.A.

Tennessee Governor Directs Fight On Rail Discrimination in South

This is the sixth of a series of nine articles presenting interviews with the nine Governors of the southeastern states on industrial and business conditions in their area and on their recently launched fight to eliminate freight rate differentials.
By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
(Copyright, 1937, by The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)
NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 2.—Veteran of 12 years' service in congress, Tennessee's 47-year-old Governor, Gordon Browning, is actively directing the forces here which are engaged in the southeastern states.
Because it harbors the federal government's vast TVA power experimental projects, Tennessee has a vital interest in seeing the freight rate structure of the section readjusted on a parity with similar tariffs in the now preferred eastern territory. Without proper equalization, it cannot hope to gain the full measure of industrial expansion contemplated for the entire area in the power development now in progress.

"All the old excuses for maintaining a rate differential against us have gone into the discard," Governor Browning insisted. "The eastern carriers used to contend by way of justification that transportation operation costs were greater in the south than in the east, as there was greater density of traffic in the east."

"Well, whatever the conditions were in the early days of railroad construction, that doesn't apply now. You can move freight as cheaply in the south as you can in the east. In some items the costs are less."
The Tennessee executive heads a subcommittee on class rates of the southeastern governors' conference, of which Governor Bibb Graves, of Alabama, is chairman. Already the subcommittee has filed an action before the Inter-

Ship Sinking Victim Tells Story Of 25-Hour Swim for Rescue

Addley Baker, Mobile, oiler on the steamer Tarpon which sank in the Gulf, swam between 20 and 25 miles in 25 hours and 15 minutes to bring first news of the disaster. In the following dispatch he tells of his experience.
By ADDLEY BAKER.
PANAMA CITY, Fla., Sept. 2.—(P)—"I could tell you couldn't make it."
I was in the engine room although I came off watch at midnight. The wind had started blowing at 11:30 o'clock Tuesday night and she began really to howl about 2 o'clock. All hands were standing by and all were expecting to ride her through, but about 2:30 o'clock Wednesday morning the sea started puffing completely over her.
The cranks in the engine room began to throw water. I knew she couldn't make it so I started up to the top deck.
Just as I reached there, she listed badly to the starboard side. Then, she lunged forward and started sinking.

3,000 SEEK FLYER MISSING IN TEXAS

Hope Wanes for Cadet
Grounded by Storm.

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 2.—(AP)—A long-drawn-out search by foot replaces a feverish army air hunt for Flying Cadet Guy W. Edgerton today with willing hopes of finding the missing Kenly, N. C., student flyer alive.

Somewhere between Shreveport and San Antonio, the vast big thick area of East Texas had swallowed all traces of the grounded cadet whose storm-lost craft vanished within two hours and a half after leaving Shreveport last Monday night with 12 other students for the army's "West Point of the Air" training school.

A slow moving army of 2,000 CCC enrollees and volunteer searchers pressed the search while crack army fighting squadrons, which massed 168 planes in the hunt yesterday, were held at the local airbase to track down any new leads.

ROW OVER PICKERS

Importation of Cotton Hands
Charged to Louisianans.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 2.—(AP)—W. S. Dalton, of Eudora, charged today in a letter to Arkansas Labor Commissioner Ed I. McKinley that Louisiana planters were enticing cotton pickers across the state line with a promise of higher wages.

"Louisiana planters are crossing the line and hiring pickers off Arkansas planters' trucks," the letter stated. "They are offering the pickers $1 per 100 pounds." McKinley said the prevailing south Arkansas scale ranged from 60 to 75 cents per 100 pounds.

ARMY SEEKS 500 FOR PANAMA DUTY

Southern Boys Will Be Assigned to Posts in Canal Zone.

A call for 500 more southern boys for service in the infantry in Panama has been issued by the War Department, Major General George Van Horn Moseley, commander of the fourth corps area, announced yesterday.

"The 500 young men enlisting in the present campaign probably will sail from Charleston, S. C., on September 27, General Moseley said. "Upon arrival in Panama they will be assigned to either Fort Davis or Fort Clayton, the two posts in the Panama Canal Zone garrisoned with infantry troops," he added.

In order to qualify, applicants must be citizens of the United States, between the ages of 18 and 35, sound in health, 5 feet 4 inches in height and weigh not less than 114 pounds. They must be single with no dependents and have an education equivalent to the eighth grade.

Men who are interested may write to the nearest army post or recruiting station, General Moseley said.

VINSON TO VISIT HAWAII FOR STUDY

50 Lawmakers Accept Invitation for Junket.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Fifty senators, representatives, their wives, sisters and nieces have made plans to go on the year's prize between-sessions trip—a month's visit to Hawaii.

The office of Hawaiian Delegate Sam W. King said today acceptance indicated that the party may be increased before October 1, the scheduled sailing date.

The purpose is to study Hawaii's readiness for admission as the 49th state.

Congress authorized the trip but Hawaii is footing the bills. The legislature appropriated $20,000 and the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce has added other sums.

The list of tentative acceptances includes Representative Vinson, of Georgia.

CROP EXPERTS DISCOUNT BOLL WEEVIL DAMAGE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Reports of increased boll weevil activity in the southern cotton belt do not worry officials of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Life here.

The crop is too far advanced, they said, for the pest to do any serious damage for the remainder of this season.

NO QUARREL HERE, MARTHA RAYE SAYS

Comedienne, Husband Are 'Back Together Again.'

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Martha Raye, big-mouthed screen comedienne, grinned from ear to ear today as she announced she and her husband of three months, Hamilton (Buddy) Westmore, are "back together again."

"There'll be no annulment," she said.

"We're going to make a go of it."

The couple eloped to Las Vegas, Nev., May 30 after a typical whirlwind Hollywood courtship. Westmore, studio makeup expert, accompanied Miss Raye part of the way on a recent personal appearance tour, but returned ahead of her.

The enforced separation stirred reports the newlyweds had quarreled.

Drops Into Street While Washing Windows at Home

Mrs. James S. Pate, 40, of 283-B Luckie street, was seriously injured late yesterday afternoon when she fell from a two-story room while washing a window, police reported.

She was taken to Grady hospital, where attendants said she had suffered a concussion of the brain and a probable skull fracture. She was also badly lacerated about the head. The accident was witnessed by her daughter, Violet, 19, and her husband.

ATLANTAN ELECTED TO VETERAN BOARD

William L. Van Dyke Will Represent District as Administration Delegate.

National convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars elected William L. Van Dyke, of Atlanta, to membership on the national council of administration to represent the fifth district, composed of the southeastern states.

Van Dyke's appointment as national director of Americanism was confirmed earlier in the week by the convention, which met in Buffalo last week.

Van Dyke is department commander of the Georgia district. His rise in the Veterans of Foreign Wars organization started with his election as commander of Marcus Beck Jr. post several years ago.

His report on Americanism submitted to the recent state convention in Savannah brought him into national notice. His recommendations were adopted and in turn the national convention adopted them and commissioned Van Dyke to carry them out.

THREE MEALS A DAY

HOME TESTED RECIPES

BY Sally Saver

There is an old recipe for rabbit which begins "First catch your hare," so let's just apply it to fish—"First catch your fish." You can either do it personally or go leisurely angling to the nearest fish market and make your choice. And when you exhaust the fresh fish store, there is the corner grocery where a day's catch comes up strictly to order—canned, dried, flaked, salted, smoked, or frozen. But whatever you do, first catch the fish.

We are told that fish eating goes back to antiquity and so, of course, the so-called art of fish cookery has undergone changes through the years. Still, one rule seems never to have changed since early culinarians established it.

Needs Sharpness. That is the mulling, in some form, of lardiness with the fish flavor. In general, fish has less flavor than meat and so it calls for a contrasting sharpness in the way of accompaniments—a sharpness not too sharp, but one which tones and enhances the delicate flavor.

This can be accomplished with a variety of sauces, gravies, stuffings, seasonings and appropriate garnishing touches, using as a basis such favorites as the tangy cucumber pickles, from the sharpest dill to the daintiest of spicy sweet Gherkins, colorful lemon slices, tomatoes, many prepared sauces, mayonnaise, chutneys, and so on. In dressings for the whole cooked fish, one weighing 2 or 2 1/2 pounds:

Prepare it for baking. Stuff with 1-2 standard package of spreading cheese. Pour over a mixture of 1 cup milk, 1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon mustard, 1-3 cup chopped onion. Spread body of fish with cheese and bake in hot oven, basting frequently.

And here are thoughts for getting a nice tartness in the fish stuffing:

Stuffed Baked Haddock or White Fish.

Wash, dry and sprinkle medium-sized fish with salt and pepper. Make stuffing of 2 cups dry bread crumbs, 1-4 cup melted butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon onion juice, 1-4 cup chopped sweet Gherkins.

Stuff fish, sew up, dredge with flour and dot with butter. Place in baking pan and add 1-2 cup water. Bake in moderate oven 1 hour and baste frequently. Serve with a warm tomato sauce and garnish with pickles and parsley.

Pickle and Cucumber Stuffing.

Combine 1-2 cup chopped dill pickles, 1-2 cup chopped fresh cucumbers, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, 1 slightly beaten egg, salt and pepper. This will stuff a 2-pound fish.

This sauce, too, will be a delightful change from clear lemon juice when served with any fish broiled or fried:

Sauce Figueante.

Simmer 1 chopped onion with a piece of butter. Add 2 teaspoons crushed pepper and 1-2 cup vinegar. Reduce almost dry, then add 1 pint of brown gravy made with butter, and boil 15 minutes. Drain. Add 1-2 cup sweet pickles, chopped fine, and boil a few minutes longer. Add 1 tablespoon chopped parsley after removing sauce from fire and serve warm. Garnish fish with watercress.

Pimento Dressing.

Combine in this order 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1-2 tablespoons flour, 1 egg, 3-4 cup milk, and 4 tablespoons vinegar. Blend well and cook slowly in double boiler. Stir constantly until thick, adding 1 tablespoon butter. Cool and add 1 finely chopped hard cooked egg, 1 chopped pimento, and 1 tablespoon sour Gherkins. Good with any fish broiled, baked or fried.

Any fish or sea food welcomes some sharp accompaniment, or blend of flavors, and so do we all! So here are some ideas for use now or later:

Tuna With Pickle Sauce.

Steam tuna over hot water till well heated. Melt in a saucepan 2 tablespoons butter and blend gradually with 2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-1/2 cups milk. Cook until thick and add 3 tablespoons finely chopped sweet Gherkins and 1-2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Arrange tuna on buttered toast, cover with sauce and sprinkle with chopped parsley and paprika. Garnish with pickle and tomato slices.

Oysters A La Mexicana.

Place oysters in a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with cheese and bits of butter. Then cover with a sauce made by combining 1-2 cup tomato catsup, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter, 1-4 teaspoon pepper. Bake in a moderate oven until cheese melts and oysters begin to curl.

Shrimp Creole.

Chop fine 4 stalks celery and two medium onions and brown in two tablespoons butter or fat. Add 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 2 tablespoons chili powder. Blend well and slowly add 1 cup hot water. Cook 15 minutes and add 2 cups tomatoes, 2 cups peas, 1 tablespoon vinegar, and 1-1/2 cups cooked shrimps. Cook until shrimps are well heated. Mold 3 cups hot boiled rice in cones or ring and surround with shrimp creole. Serve with sliced dill pickles.

Hash De Luxe.

Cut up boiled potatoes into small and even pieces, and cube leftover meat to the same size. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a double boiler, add 2 cups of cubed boiled potatoes, mix, and then pour in 3-4 cup cream with 2 teaspoons chopped parsley. Lastly add the cubed meat—2 cups is the right amount. Mix, but do not break or mash the potatoes. Mold lightly in a single flattened loaf or in individual portions. Put in a buttered pan, butter well and bake until well browned—15 to 20 minutes. Indent the top of the hash with the underside of a tablespoon and place in the indentations one poached egg to each portion. Dust the eggs with paprika, garnish with parsley and serve.

Casserole of Beef.

One teaspoon shortening, 1 small chopped onion, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1 pound beef cut in cubes, 1 cup peas, 1-1/2 cups mashed potatoes. Cook onion in melted shortening until soft. Add salt and pepper. Brown the small pieces of beef on both sides in a frying pan. Combine the cooked onion and the beef, add water to cover and cook until tender over a low heat. Place the meat and gravy in the bottom of a greased casserole. Add the peas and cover with the mashed potatoes. Place in a moderate oven and cook until potatoes are well browned.

This dish may be prepared in the morning and put in the oven just about half an hour before serving. Serve with this a molded salad that may also be prepared in the morning—or even the night before.

GIVEN TEACHING POST. MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Sept. 2. (P)—Edwin Andrews, graduate of Presbyterian College at Clinton, S. C., and Emory University at Atlanta, has accepted a teaching post in the chemistry department of the University of North Carolina.

LOYALISTS BLAST SIDE OF MOUNTAIN ON REBEL ADVANCE

Insurgent Column Pushes
Into Oviedo, Nears Last Red-Held Biscayan Port.

RENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Sept. 2.—(AP)—An insurgent column smashed its way five miles into Oviedo province today although Asturian miners dynamited a mountain side in an effort to block the road into the only province of the northern coast remaining in government hands.

The blast was set off on a peak just within the Oviedo frontier in the Cuera range. It hurled a mass of debris into the path of the insurgents advancing on Port Llanas on the road to Gijon, the government's last remaining Bay of Biscay.

port now that Bilbao and Santander have fallen.

Advance Not Halted.
Insurgent dispatches, however, said the road was only partially blocked and that the advance was not halted.

As the insurgents entered Oviedo, the ancient principality of Asturias, Asturian miners fought back bitterly to halt the invasion of their homeland.

However, reports reached the border that Asturian leaders were negotiating with Franco for the surrender of Gijon, which would mean disappearance of the government flag from the northern coastal region.

Parliamentary deputies from Gijon were said to be parleying with the commander of the invading column.

The insurgents also claimed successes on the Aragon front, 200 miles to the southeast. They said communications had been re-established between Teruel and Zaragoza, insurgent strongholds, after government militia units had been driven from all sectors between the two cities.

Battle of Belchite.
A government communique from Valencia, however, asserted the government lines had been tightened around Belchite, 20 miles south of Zaragoza, in spite of terrific insurgent aerial and artillery bombardments. House-to-house fighting was reported in progress on the western fringe of Belchite.

Two insurgent columns were participating in the march on Gijon. Insurgent officers said residents of towns in the path of the advance received the newcomers jubilantly and erected triumphal arches in their honor.

An entire government battalion of 1,019 men was reported captured Wednesday on the Santander-Oviedo frontier.

U. S. AVIATOR REPORTED SENTENCED TO DEATH.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The State Department asked its representatives in Spain today to investigate a report that Harold E. Dahl, Champaign (Ill.) aviator, had been condemned to death by Spanish insurgents.

Officials here said they had learned that Dahl was shot down while flying for the Spanish Loyalists. The department gave no indication it would intervene.

URUGUAY DECIDES TO RECOGNIZE FRANCO.
MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Uruguay has decided to recognize Spanish Insurgent General Franco.

The action was determined upon regardless of the general response of other American republics, which have been consulted, Venezuela, for one, replied favorably.

Lucky Hat Fails Miles

was for Roger Don Rae, who has an entry, "Miss Detroit," in some of the events.

Miles, who was also entered in the 200-mile Thompson trophy race scheduled for Monday, the day after the Greve race, was flying a low wing speedster several years old, powered with a Manasco motor.

Pilots Are Ready.
Meanwhile a dozen pilots mounted on the fastest airplanes in the country, the armed services excepted, toed the mark tonight in a race which was a quest for gold and speed, priceless ingredients of international air supremacy.

From the Pacific coast they will lift their machines off the runway early tomorrow in a transcontinental derby known as the Vincent Bendix race to inaugurate the ninth renewal of the national air races at Cleveland's municipal airport. Sustained speeds approaching 300 miles an hour, six and a half times the speed first officially registered for an airplane in competition at Rheims 28 years ago, were considered possible.

The prizes to be divided among the pilots who place, including one woman, aggregate more than $25,000.

The highest speed ever registered in the Bendix race was set by Ben Howard in winning the derby in 1935—238.70 miles an hour.

BOMBING OF JAPAN FROM AIR REPORTED

ern island of Kyushu, electrified Chinese circles here today. No sources other than Chinese had the reports, and foreign authorities were inclined to doubt them. However, it was recalled the Chinese possess powerful, long-range bombers and have threatened repeatedly to send them across the Yellow sea to strike at the enemy's homeland.

Kagoshima, a city of 137,000 at the southern tip of Kyushu is about 600 miles in direct line from Nanking, probably the nearest Chinese air base.

Chinese Strike Hard.
Well authenticated reports said the Chinese air force had struck telling blows closer to home, with punishing raids against the Japanese forces which have gained a footing on the southern bank of the Yangtze river.

Meanwhile Chinese shells fell dangerously near the Cruiser Augusta, flagship of the United States Asiatic fleet, today in a heavy bombardment directed at the Japanese cruiser Izumo.

Giant howitzers in Pootung, industrial section across the Whangpoo river from the International Settlement, burst into action at 9:48 p. m. (Atlanta time) Thursday against the battle-scarred Izumo.

The Chinese bombers from bases west of Soochow inflicted heavy losses and returned to their bases.

Chinese planes also bombed the air base the Japanese army recently established on Tsungmin Island, in the Yangtze estuary. The Chinese aerial activity was reported seriously dislocating Japanese operations. A huge expedition along the Yangtze, with a push inland, Japanese officers continued to say the big offensive was about to begin, but the zero hour was not revealed. They said 200 big guns were being landed, to blast a way through the Chinese defenses.

Marines Periled.
Late Thursday Japanese bombers continued to operate close to the American marines' and British infantry defense lines in Shanghai's International Settlement, seriously impeding the forces on guard there.

The Japanese command notified British authorities such raids would continue and advised withdrawal of outposts along the British line, which is a continuation of the American line.

The main battle for Shanghai continued fiercely along the curving 20-mile front between Woosung and Luho, 12 to 20 miles north and northwest of Shanghai, with heavy expenditure of men and munitions but no decisive military change. Japanese claim minor gains; Chinese denied even these.

Within the foreign areas of Shanghai one peril to foreign lives was lessened when authorities of the French concession announced the outbreak of cholera there had been put under control. No foreigners had contracted the disease. The British made no response to the Japanese notification, which said Chinese communications lines in the Jessfield Park district near the British lines would be bombed. St. John's University, largely supported by American mission funds, lies in the endangered area. Daily air raids along their front, coupled with heavy fire from Japanese warships at Chinese positions has made the marines' sector so dangerous the men wear steel helmets and keep close behind their heavy sandbag barricades. Desperate Chinese resistance all along the Yangtze river front prevented the Japanese army's long-heralded drive inland from the river from gaining momentum. In two weeks the Japanese have gained little more than a toehold for the big offensive their commanders have said would smash all Chinese resistance in this area and move the tides of war far from Shanghai.

JAPANESE NAVAL OFFICE DENY REPORT OF ATTACK.
TOKYO, Sept. 3.—(Friday)—(AP)—The navy office today officially denied reports from China that Chinese planes had bombed Kagoshima.

Japanese in Kagoshima, reached by telephone from Tokyo, also denied the reports. (Unconfirmed reports from Chinese in Shanghai said Chinese war planes had flown to Japan and bombed Kagoshima on the southern island of Kyushu.)

"Camay is the perfect way to a Glamorous Complexion"

SAYS THIS DELIGHTFUL PENNSYLVANIA BRIDE

PHILADELPHIA, PA:
Camay has been a perfect care right from the start. It gave my skin a new, exciting glamor—keeps my skin the way I like it, too!

Sincerely,
(Signed) NANCY VANE WINN
(Mrs. Edward C. Winn)

June 22, 1937

SUCH a bewitchingly blonde and blue-eyed bride—and so pleased with her Camay complexion! "Camay gave me the kind of skin every girl wants," says lovely Mrs. Winn. "Somehow when skin is lovely, hair and eyes seem nicer, too!"

How true that is! No girl can be attractive if her skin is dull and drab! Wise girls know this—that's why more and more of them every day are putting their faith in Camay.

Three simple facts prove why Camay brings results. No soap has the same creamy lather Camay has—a lather rich in beauty bubbles that are made to cleanse your skin. Camay's gentle lather goes down deep to the pores—really gets skin clean—keeps it feeling fresh.

No beauty soap on the market today is gentler than Camay. Time after time, in tests against all other leading beauty soaps, Camay was definitely, provably milder. Even sensitive skin keeps lovely under Camay care.

And though you cannot buy a beauty soap that's better than Camay—Camay costs you very little. Why don't you try it? Half a dozen cakes, bought before another day goes by, will set you on the road to a lovely bride complexion! Let Camay help to win men's hearts for you!

THE ROAD TO WORLD PEACE

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in a speech delivered Wednesday, reiterated his oft-stated belief that the only real road to world peace is in the development of international trade.

Styling the armaments race in which so many nations are involved a "vicious cycle," the American statesman declares it is bankrupting many countries.

Secretary Hull, through the reciprocal trade agreements which he has negotiated with 16 nations, has achieved much in his efforts to break down those national barriers to trade which promote antagonism, breed enmity and disrupt the economic conditions of so many nations.

He is striving, he states, to so conduct the United States Department of State that it may truly merit the popular title of "department of peace."

The policy of trade development promoted by Secretary Hull calls for a high sense of national unselfishness if it is to succeed. Such factors as overvalued currencies and other hindrances to the free flow of world trade must be lowered or entirely eliminated. Excessive nationalism, coupled with greed, is the foundation of these hindering structures and the result is a denial to other nations both of world outlet for their surplus products and world accessibility to needed sources of supply.

Referring to the "slow but steady" change of attitude on the part of statesmen throughout the world, Secretary Hull states that today there is "almost unanimous testimony that the policy of trade liberalization and international economic fair play can alone relieve the tension that is holding the world in its grip."

Testifying to the mounting "feeling of trust" which other nations are according to the United States, the cabinet member says that this country has not tried to "outsmart" neighbors or competitors "or to use superiority of size or wealth or position to coerce another into doing what he believes to be against his true interests."

In other words, the United States has itself "played fair," and thus contributed tremendously to whatever hope there is in the world today for the ultimate achievement of world peace based upon universal realization of the world-wide brotherhood of man.

REAL LOW-COST HOUSING

Low-cost housing advocates in Washington would do well to investigate experiences along this line in two widely separated localities.

First let them investigate the system followed in Sweden. According to the Greenwood (S. C.) Index-Journal, there are 3,000 new "magic houses" in the outskirts of Stockholm alone.

The total cost of each of these Swedish homes is reported at between $500 and $750. They are erected through a system of municipally-aided financing which spreads the payments over a period of 20 years or longer. The houses are prefabricated and the cost is held to a minimum because the families which are to occupy them do a large part of the work of erection themselves. They are reported as entirely satisfactory and providing the best possible living conditions commensurate with their owners' needs and ability to pay.

Then, to prove that it is not impossible to construct good homes at low cost in America, the experts are invited to visit Clemson College, in South Carolina, and inspect the model home built there by Clemson Opportunity school students.

The total outlay for this model home, said to be a truly delightful and complete cottage, was $1,200.

DREAM-OR ACTUALITY?

Obid M. Smith, of Miami, claims he has been experimentally successful in making a six-cylinder automobile motor that uses compressed air for motive power, instead of gasoline. In fact, Mr. Smith states he has driven a car, equipped with one of his revolutionary motors, for 9,000 miles, through 11 states, without stopping at any gasoline filling station.

He likewise claims that his motor does not heat and thus a cooling system, either water or air, is not needed. Neither, he says, does he use gears or ignition. All of which, if true, would indicate a possibility of much lower cost of production for automobiles, as well as cheaper operation.

Mr. Smith is said to have demonstrated a stationary model of his motor to the satisfaction of a group of selected observers at Miami recently. And he promises soon to equip another car with a 150-pound pressure tank and drive around the country to do his demonstrating hither and yon.

If—and we are constrained to regard that preposition as in headline type—the Smith claims are true, the day of revolution in transportation may be dawning, instead of in full midday effulgence.

COTTON AT NINE CENTS

While some cotton producers and others interested in the staple may feel disappointment in the government decision to limit its price-pegging loans on warehouse cotton to 9 cents a pound, there is actually no valid reason for criticism of the administration.

Cotton sold at 9 cents leaves only a slender margin of profit for the grower, nevertheless it can be grown for less than that figure. Thus the farmer who receives 9 cents for his product is enabled to show some profit, however slight, and not have to pocket a loss on his season's work, as he has had to do many times in past years.

Cotton pegged at 9 cents will more readily find its way to export markets, thus relieving the domestic situation caused by excessively heavy crops. This, ultimately, will tend to strengthen the domestic market and thus bring benefit to the entire industry.

At the same time it must be remembered that the government proposes to adjust the price finally paid up to 12 cents on 65 per cent of the acreage planted. This means that the planter who co-operates in the government's crop control program will receive 12 cents per pound for his cotton, up to 65 per cent of the acreage planted in a given period, before control was proposed.

To do otherwise would be to penalize the grower who co-operated with the government for the benefit of the one who refused to join in the general acreage reduction plan. This would have been manifestly unfair.

Any price peg must be linked with production control. Otherwise the crop would run wild and the evil attacked would be greater next year than it is now. Inasmuch as the equalizing payments are not to be made until after the grower conforms with the crop control program, the government is furnished a powerful weapon with which to hold the 1938 crop within limits commensurate with the market demands.

FOR THE WORLD VIEW

The Institute of Public Affairs, important adjunct of the University of Georgia at Athens, has recently published the texts of a majority of the lectures delivered by world leaders during the 1936-37 session. These lectures, delivered at various times during the school year, brought to Georgia men famous in many countries, including England, Germany, France and Italy, as well as outstanding thinkers in the United States.

In addition to this series of lectures on world topics, the institute this summer conducted a session devoted to Georgia. This year's special topic dealt with health conditions in the state. In bringing to Georgia these noted students of world affairs, the institute performs a valuable service. It provides opportunity for the students of the university and for Georgian's generally to acquire a world view of developments of the day and lifts the coming generation out of the undesirable strictly provincial mental attitude.

Of the 11 lecturers on the 1936-37 program of the institute proper, seven were Europeans. Three from England, one from France, one from Italy and two from Germany. The four American speakers were D. E. Lillenthal, co-director of the TVA; Herbert Agar, publicist and associate editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal; Raymond Leslie Buell, president of the Foreign Policy Association, and Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president of Johns Hopkins University.

The opportunity to hear such men is no small part of the education offered young Georgians at the university. A group of lecturers of similar standing will be provided during the college year which commences this month.

A London daily asks help in selecting the 12 greatest sayings of history. We had thought of writing "they hired the money, didn't they?" but that would be loud.

There are baked hams today in lithographs that come nearer to giving the illusion and feeling of the true ham than many an apothecary sandwich.

A man in Maryland caught a 30-pound turtle, using a pork chop for bait. Landing a pork chop with a turtle at these prices would be something.

Editorial of the Day

OUR FLANLESS FINANCES

(From the Baltimore Sun.)

In a period in which deficiency estimates are used as frequently and on such a large scale as they are used by this administration, and in a period in which new legislation requiring appropriations to give it effect is passed as frequently as is now the case, congress is acutely in need of some device or method for putting all budgetary matters into perspective and affording a view of the whole fiscal situation.

It ought to be a rather simple matter for congress to provide itself with this machinery. It would require no very extensive statistical work to provide, say week by week, an estimate of probable expenditures for the next fiscal year as affected by any appropriations made or authorized in the past, together with an estimate of probable revenues as affected by changes in tax laws or other legislation affecting the government's income. Then it would be possible by deducting one of these items from the other to have an estimate of the probable deficit or surplus for the fiscal period for which congress may be legislating.

Some form of collaboration between the ways and means committee, which is the revenue committee of the house, and the appropriations committee in that chamber and between the senate finance and appropriations committee ought to provide this information. Then some procedure for acting on appropriations and revenue measures in the light of the current budgetary prospect as a whole might be devised without too much difficulty. The main thing that needs to be overcome is the inertia which keeps the present faulty procedure alive.

Congress, which is very jealous of its prerogatives in money matters, ought not to have too much trouble in shaking itself out of the current rut and finding a way to handle money bills that will serve the true ends of the budget system, which is nothing more nor less than a system of fiscal planning. Until something like this is arranged congress will remain in the none-too-dignified position of trying to do something without knowing precisely what it is about.

That is not good practice in any period. It is particularly bad practice in a period of $7,000,000,000 budgets which persistently remain out of balance.

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

An Open Letter to Baron von Neurath.

Dear Sir:

We see from your speech in Stuttgart on Sunday that the government of which you are foreign minister intends to organize Nazi groups in this country, made up of German Americans and professional agitators sent from the Fatherland, and getting their orders from Germany. You warn us that Germany will not tolerate that foreign governments should discriminate against such German groups within their country.

In other words you warn us that you intend to spread your propaganda on our soil, and that our government dare not interfere. Thank you for making your intentions so plain. A few of us have always held that this was your intention. You are for an open conspiracy, openly arrived at. Now we can understand each other.

Another of your spokesmen at Stuttgart, Ernst Bohler, "leader" of the Nazi Foreign Organization, helped to clarify things for us. He said, "Whoever lives abroad as a German businessman, is working not only for himself but primarily in the service of the German people." This is a very clear statement of your intention.

We wonder if you, a trained diplomat, of long service, have forgotten what you once must have known, that the admission of any foreigner to this country is not a matter of right, upon which the government has no right to deny and hospitality. It is a privilege that a guest in one's house will not spit on the floor, break the furniture, or insult other guests. Yet you are instructing German guests in our house to mock our institutions, pervert their mission, and, if possible, to spread hostility against organized workers, and finally to divide our own house against itself.

The American conception of civil liberties, our protection of free speech, alone makes the tolerance of such groups possible. You know perfectly well that you would not tolerate any activities promoted by a "foreign government" on your own soil. On what ground, therefore, do you appeal to us for toleration? On the ground of reciprocity?

Do you remember, Mr. Minister, that in 1933, when we extended formal recognition to Soviet Russia, we did so only on condition that Russia would conduct no propaganda activities here. And when we refused to recognize the Comintern in August, 1935, that it did intend to exert an influence on citizens of this country, the United States protested to the point of threatening to break off diplomatic relations.

On the same day that your speech was reported, 25,000 of your followers held a rally on Long Island. There they heard the Nazi government of Germany praised. They were allegedly American citizens of German extraction, but they uttered no word of praise for American institutions. They announced that they were mobilized to fight the CIO, and save us from Bolshevism.

We are pretty good at this sort of thing. We have saved thousands of our most valuable citizens from extermination, by opening our doors to them. We have not yet observed that any one is fleeing to your country for refuge. Since we have given haven to some of your most distinguished people. And whether they came to this country as refugees from political oppression, or for other reasons, Germans have helped to settle this country, and have been among its most desirable citizens. Now we are to be the place of his birth, even if he when he approached Mrs. Green for a donation to a crippled children's hospital in Brooklyn some years ago. Mrs. Green replied that she was interested because her son was a cripple, but that she could not subscribe because all her money came to her from Chicago. A Quaker-giver, she explained, was one who was careful to put money back into the place from which it came. Her income was always reinvested in Chicago, she said, and she implied that if she ever did give any money away (which she didn't) it would be given in Chicago.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"Under all is the land."

From our scientific young friend Charles Young, of the University of Virginia, comes fervent endorsement of comment here upon the indestructible, infinitely precious properties of the good earth we live on. He quotes a historian's reminder that "iron rusts, leather rots, wood molds into dust, stone is cracked and chipped away—but clay lasts forever." It lasts forever, and so does sand, but they do not stay put forever in the same place. Wind and water steal them continually unless we hold them.

For the losses of it that are going on and for the great new employment promised it if it is retained and made good, the soil of the south is a matter of great editorial, scientific, and manual, attention it can get these days.

Industry is coming south, and that is a boon if rightly received. Trade is coming south. Vacationists are coming. New residents and new capital are coming. Most of us are well aware of these advantages, but not so many have in mind another great southern coming—the coming of agriculture. New types and measures of agriculture are coming south now to supplement the types and measures here so long. Chemical agriculture, animal husbandry for a great meat industry, forest husbandry for a great paper industry, new uses for cotton, peanuts, potatoes, new groves of tung trees, and many another addition which the advantages of this region or the miseries of another are making logical.

The soil of the south was never so precious, never so worth saving. The yellow and red soils of the southern rivers run are colors of calamity, challenges to all who know the value of their southern soil and would save it from the sea.

Everybody knows what an "Indian-giver" is but hardly anybody knows what a "Quaker-giver" is. The term, according to a banker with whom we talked in New York the other day, was used by the late Hetty Green, the country's wealthiest woman, and nobody else. This banker heard it first was driven from it. But as citizens of this state, they have given unquestioned allegiance to it. And in 1917, when we were, unhappily, at war with your country, thousands of men of German blood shed for the United States of America. But in the future we are to presume no such loyalty. For you are saying, in effect, that one drop of German blood cannot be washed out by a thousands oaths of allegiance.

Apparently it has not occurred to you, Mr. Minister, that we may not want to be saved for Nazism. In our crazy American way, we prefer order and freedom as we conceive it, to what you conceive as the "trial by jury to trial by budgeon." We prefer free speech to a prostitute press. We prefer free universities, free science and free art, to education, science and art dictated by a political party. The right to worship however, wherever and whatever we please is written in our constitution, and we have not yet taken to framing priests and nuns or to putting pastors into concentration camps. We don't forbid Americans to join Rotary Clubs, as you recently forbade your citizens to join the group that the Germans could belong to an organization having international affiliations. And we wonder, how in the face of that, you can have the effrontery to contemplate establishing an international propaganda organization on our soil, which is an invasion of the late Tex Rickard. In Mr. Rickard's last heavyweight elimination tournament a dozen little, lean bodies eliminated one another back and forth for almost a year, and at the end it was decided that Mr. Tom Heeny, who had been eliminated most, was the rightful holder of logical contendorship, and thus the obvious opponent for Gene Tunney.

Run-Around While the current heavyweights are eliminating one another next winter, Louis will retire to wait the decision of fate, and thus Schmeling is postponed for the time. There is also for the possibility that he will be eliminated during the winter, whether he enters the tournament or no. If he should enter it and win, that would automatically disqualify him for a championship fight next spring, according to the tradition which confers the logical contendorship on the gladiator who is eliminated most. If he should stand aloof from the tournament, he would be postponed again while Louis met the logical contendor in response to great popular demand. From a standpoint of sport, if sport were in any way involved in the prize fight industry, all this would represent injustice to Herr Schmeling, who doubtless can beat Louis any time before old age sets in and doubtless could have beaten Braddock, too.

It is best to regard pugilism as a miniature of international diplomacy and to apply to the profession all the duplicity, hypocrisy, and the vicious cynicism, dishonesty and treachery that distinguish and particularly the dictatorial employ in their dealings with one another.

It is not strictly analogous, but the case of Mussolini and Abyssinia has points of similarity. For reasons of their own, the Italians brought Abyssinia into the League of Nations, and then refused to resort to war, and further agreed to impose boycott measures on any nation that did.

Mr. Jacobs, the promoter, welcomed Schmeling to competition in the belief that Louis would lick him, a belief which Adolf Hitler shared. But when Schmeling unexpectedly beat Louis and Hitler suddenly discovered that the swarthy brute with the narrow black eyes and high cheek bones was a true blond Aryan he was deemed inadvisable to permit him to become independent and dictatorial as the nations carelessly permitted Hitler to rear.

In Mussolini's case the League of Nations was so old and the popular sentiments of the hour had been so far forgotten that he could ignore his promise, just as he ignored his promise to Schmeling and his plain rights in the case have been ignored. Mussolini then attacked a fellow member of the League at a distance of 3,000 miles in defense of the gates of Rome, and conquered the country, and by sheer force of the act. The world didn't approve, but decided that it was another of those things, and just let it go.

Similarly, the public has regarded Schmeling's case as one of those things, not forgetting that he behaved the same way toward Jack Sharkey when he was champion.

Unquestionably, Herr Schmeling has been denied his rights, like Abyssinia and China and the minorities in Germany. Pugilism was called game of all, but that was ignorance speaking. International relations necessarily are dirtier because they are bigger. But, pound for pound, neither Italy, Japan nor Schmeling's Hitler himself can outtrots the manly

She Still Lives.

Some time ago, in that sub-parment of this column labeled "And Fifty Years Ago," a quotation from The Constitution of 1887 told how one Alice Burns, a negative woman living near Cochran, Ga., had given birth to triplets.

Now comes the sequel to that paragraph under a Cochran date-line. The correspondent there tells how Miss Alice Horton, of Atlanta, clipped that item and sent it to her mother, Mrs. Edna Horton, of Cochran. And Mrs. Horton did a little investigating.

She found the negro woman, Alice Burns, still alive and active. Living in Cochran. To her Mrs. Horton showed the clipping and the aged colored woman beamed with pride and said, "Lawsdy henny! I'm dat same colored woman. I'm demers dem three kids well."

She didn't say how many of the triplets still live, but recalled naming them Carolina, Florida and Georgia. She is now 82 years old and exceptionally active for her years. She was married in 1890, in Jones county and married when she was 14. There were 11 children all told but the others came along in the normal, one-at-a-time fashion. Her husband died many years ago.

That's interesting.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Tuesday, September 3, 1912: Atlanta will gain more than 800 new residents today at noon because of the action of 59 voters of Capitol View, Blackhall district, on Monday. At 12 o'clock Tuesday Capitol View becomes a part of the city of Atlanta.

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Saturday, September 3, 1887: "Dr. Joe Jacobs, the well-known druggist, leaves tonight for Cincinnati, to attend the annual session of the American Pharmaceutical association."

Biggest Building.

Gelglin claims to have in the Palace of Justice at Brussels the biggest building in Europe. It covers an area 12 per cent greater than that of St. Peter's in Rome.

The Terror of One Wall-Eyed Steer Can Stampede the Whole Herd

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Experiments have shown that sugar is a quick-burning fuel which overcomes fatigue and gives a brief increase of energy.

Fear, like rage, increases certain gland secretions and this increase results in increased consumption of stored sugar, thus providing a few minutes of abnormal strength of fleetness of foot.

This chemical change probably gives the body a new odor which is immediately recognized by the keen nostrils of the wilds. And if this is true, it is evident that fear has a distinctive odor.

If that also is true, it is easy to understand how one animal "instinctively" detects the fear of another. But why does this recognition of fear in others cause an animal to be so uneasy? Does it suspect some unseen danger to itself? Or does it know from experience that a frightened animal is doubly dangerous?

Whatever the explanation, a horse knows at once that its rider is afraid and the knowledge makes it uneasy. A mean horse will take advantage of a rider's timidity, and a nervous horse may become terrified if its rider does.

A bad dog recognizes fear, and like every bully, takes quick advantage of it. It attacks the terrified and makes no effort to harm those who are unafraid.

There are well-authenticated instances of poisonous snakes having permitted themselves to be petted by infants without show of resentment. And those persons who can handle snakes without being struck can give no explanation of their immunity except that they are not afraid.

We have lost so much of our primitive equipment and our senses are dulled, but we are still uneasy in the presence of fear.

It is often said that women, however prim and decorous, have a preference for men with much of the devil in them. The common explanation is that they have a secret hankering for naughtiness, but it is more likely that they are charmed by the devil-may-care, also; while the virtuous man, being timid and rattled, disturbs their poise and makes them share his discomfort.

The speaker who is wholly at ease quickly captures his audience; the frightened one makes his hearers suffer a vicarious shame and loses both their interest and good will.

Charm is largely a matter of being utterly at ease yourself and thus making others poised and confident when you are around.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES

Man used to look
To a heavenward sky—
Now, man-made hate,
The warplane's breath,
Down from the blue
Hurts fearful death;
The air bombs scream
Of beauty's death;
The sky becomes
The source of hell—
Man seeks new heaven
For woes' surcease,
In some deep grave
To rest, in peace.

Thoughts On

A Great Leader.

Not in return for the awful nice things said about this column in Jerome Jones' own splendid column which appears in each issue of The Journal of Labor, but admittedly suggested because said nice things were drawn to attention, the old mind has been playing around with Jerome and his career.

And, bringing those ruminations up to vocalized thought, as it were, we would ask if any of you Atlantans know a man who has been a better citizen, of city and state, who has lived a more worthwhile life than that selfsame namesake of ours?

When you are tagged with the surname Jones—and, probably, with Smith or Brown or Robinson, etc.—you grow accustomed to twittings from those poorly equipped souls who see something humorous in the very frequency of the name.

A favorite retort to such weak attempts at humor is, "If all the Joneses died at once, you'd miss us." Which, by very quantity, you'll admit is true.

How We'd

Be Missed.

Now, if "Silhouettes Jones" died probably the day or two, would be the substitution of some other columnist's efforts for these. But it is really serious to contemplate what would have been the result if there had been no Jerome Jones to live in Atlanta.

He is the dean of organized labor in this city. He has occupied a place of leadership in organized labor for so many years no man can remember the beginning. His wise counsels and influence, both by direct personal contact and through the brilliant editorials he has written for The Journal of Labor have done more, probably, than any other single influence, to make the organized labor universally respected group it is, on the whole, in Atlanta today.

His has ever been the voice of wisdom and moderation and his influence is, I believe, chiefly responsible for the high place that organized labor holds today in the esteem of Atlanta and Georgia as a whole.

gative woman living near Cochran, Ga., had given birth to triplets.

Now comes the sequel to that paragraph under a Cochran date-line. The correspondent there tells how Miss Alice Horton, of Atlanta, clipped that item and sent it to her mother, Mrs. Edna Horton, of Cochran. And Mrs. Horton did a little investigating.

She found the negro woman, Alice Burns, still alive and active. Living in Cochran. To her Mrs. Horton showed the clipping and the aged colored woman beamed with pride and said, "Lawsdy henny! I'm dat same colored woman. I'm demers dem three kids well."

She didn't say how many of the triplets still live, but recalled naming them Carolina, Florida and Georgia. She is now 82 years old and exceptionally active for her years. She was married in 1890, in Jones county and married when she was 14. There were 11 children all told but the others came along in the normal, one-at-a-time fashion. Her husband died many years ago.

That's interesting.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Tuesday, September 3, 1912: Atlanta will gain more than 800 new residents today at noon because of the action of 59 voters of Capitol View, Blackhall district, on Monday. At 12 o'clock Tuesday Capitol View becomes a part of the city of Atlanta.

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Saturday, September 3, 1887: "Dr. Joe Jacobs, the well-known druggist, leaves tonight for Cincinnati, to attend the annual session of the American Pharmaceutical association."

Biggest Building.

Gelglin claims to have in the Palace of Justice at Brussels the biggest building in Europe. It covers an area 12 per cent greater than that of St. Peter's in Rome.

FINE EXPRESSION

OF PRESENT PROBLEMS

Editor Constitution: Your editorial "A Challenge to the South," of Sunday, is not only opportune but a fine expression of our present problems.

The question of north or south or east or west in the United States is something that all of us should work to eradicate. The fact that any section has an advantage in the long run, is not detrimental to the other, and it is regrettable to note this tendency at the present time.

"FACT FINDER'S" LIKED EDITORIAL

Editor Constitution: Your editorial entitled "To Make Georgia Inventories," which appeared in this morning's Constitution was read with satisfaction by the sponsors of the Citizens' Fact Finding Movement. Such an analysis of the project, together with the fine presentation of its aims, is invaluable in acquainting Georgians with what we consider the unique qualities of the movement.

Please accept the sincere appreciation of the leaders of the program not only for your adequate explanation but also for your comment upon the value of the undertaking.

SEES NO CAUSE FOR PARTY SPLIT

Editor Constitution: Your stand in "A Challenge to the South" is commendable. But permit me to offer a bit of friendly criticism. It has been predicted by a few far seeing "wise men" that a split would take place within the ranks of the Democratic party before the next presidential election. It is the duty of every loyal Democrat to prove this prediction as absurd as it sounds.

The issue involved, tho' admittedly of great import, is far from sufficient cause to open a breach in a great party. History does not reveal a single movement with which any one group was in complete accord. It never will. But, as it should be, the nobler ones survived.

Hard thinking is not required to reach the conclusion that the New Deal has brought new recognition, advantages and progress to the south. Let us not sell the home-stand because we didn't get our share of the rain today.

GEORGIANS CALLED TO BACK ROOSEVELT

Editor Constitution: If any people should appreciate the labors of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, then the people of this state should. Plagued with malaria, malaria, hookworm, our share of syphilis, chain gangs, an inadequate amount in the state treasury to take care of our patients in our sanatoriums, whether mental, t. b., or otherwise; with about the lowest in the nation in educational funds, with a scale of wages for farm labor as low as 60 cents or less per day, it is possible that any outstanding paper such as yours will fail to follow our President in his efforts to better the welfare of the mass of our people?

Daily in going to and from my work I ride on paving where mud would be were it not for Franklin D. Roosevelt. Here and there are farmers now receiving the boon of electricity on their farms who would still be burning kerosene were it not for the work of this man. These are trifles compared to the things done by Franklin D. Roosevelt for our welfare, but you can see these particular things with your own eyes. Let us not condemn the bridge which carried us across, but strengthen it that it may do more for humanity.

Yours truly,
B. A. MIDDLEBROOKS,

ECHO FROM ARCTIC

40-Year-Old Diary of Explorer Reported Found.

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Norwegian ice ship Gudrun returned today from the arctic with a tiny receptacle in which, the captain said, was a "diary" of the Swedish explorer Salomon August Andree, who was lost on an attempt to reach north pole by balloon 40 years ago.

The copper and cork container was found on a small island near Spitzbergen by a fisherman. The Gudrun's master declined to disclose the contents, but said the "diary" was in good condition.

He surmised Andree had dropped the container while passing over the island.

AFTERMATH OF STORM TO BRING RAIN TODAY

Effects of the storm which swept across Florida and south Georgia will linger with Atlanta today, the weatherman predicted yesterday as he announced more rain for this afternoon.

"The storm moved across northern Florida and is now meandering up through Alabama," the forecaster said. His forecast was partly cloudy with possible local showers this afternoon and temperature extremes near 70 and 88 degrees.

The mercury yesterday ranged between 70 and 84 degrees.

They'd Rather Be Sophomores Than Grads

Lure of the sophomore irresponsibility of their undergraduate days at the University of Georgia holds more desirability than their roles as successful businessmen, Magnus J. Witman and Robert Troutman decided at a dinner of "old grads" of the class of 1911 last night. They gathered to pay tribute to Mr. Witman, Macon boy who has become one of the nation's leading business executives. Mr. Witman is seated at the table above, while Mr. Troutman leans over his shoulder with that reminiscent look in his eye.

OLD GRADS EXTEND HONOR TO WITMAN

Businessmen Forget Cares, Go Sophomore at Dinner for Former Georgian.

Ten "old grads" of the University of Georgia got together last night at the Capital City Club to honor one of their classmates, Magnus J. Witman, who licked hard luck in the "big city" and this week returned to Atlanta for the opening of a new link in the national group of stores he heads.

But the sophomore irresponsibility of their undergraduate days holds more lure for them than their roles as successful Atlanta businessmen, they decided as they warmed up their vocal chords in preparation for singing the Alma Mater and all the other college songs they used to sing before going out in 1911 to face the world as college graduates.

Troutman is host. Robert Troutman, Atlanta attorney, was host at the dinner for Mr. Witman, president of Retail Department Stores of America, Inc. Mr. Witman has been in Atlanta for several weeks preparing for the opening of the new Schulte United store, part of a 21-unit chain of which he is president. He plans to leave for his New York home Saturday.

Forgetting his recognized position as one of the outstanding business executives in the nation, Mr. Witman last night became a "college boy" again—reliving with his classmates all the members of the class of 1911, the "days when."

Mr. Witman, downed twice by hard luck during his years in the business world, went to New York in the real estate business in 1925 to learn a little about the business. He learned enough, however, to teach the "Yankees" a thing or two, and with the opening of the new store in Atlanta he has realized a life's ambition. A Macon boy, Mr. Witman said that he was not envious of any successful businessman, but only wished he was back in college.

Envies Own Boy.

"The only man I'm envious of is not any of these men here, but my son who is a sophomore in the University of Georgia," Mr. Troutman said.

Those attending the dinner last night included William Turpin, of Macon, president of the Georgia Bar Association; Graham Wright, of Rome, and Dr. W. W. Andrews, F. W. Blalock, Young Fraser, E. D. Tupper, E. W. Moise and P. F. Brock, all of Atlanta.

YOUNG PEOPLE PLAN CONFERENCE, OUTING

BLAIRSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 2.—From 2,000 to 3,000 persons are expected to attend a young people's conference in Vogel State park near here Saturday—the first such meeting to be held in this part of the state.

Among the day's major speakers will be the Rev. Harry V. Smith, of Forsyth; Dr. W. H. Faust, director of evangelism in the Georgia Baptist convention; the Rev. L. C. Cutts, of Copperhill, Tenn., and Dr. E. Schuyler English, president of the Philadelphia (Pa.) School of the Bible.

Four band concerts, water sports and a picnic are on the day's program.

SIX ASK PAROLE TO MASSACHUSETTS

appeals, but said they would be considered on their merits alone. Governor Hurley opened the exchange July 27 with criticism of the Georgia penal system in refusing to grant extradition of Cunningham.

Bewilderment was expressed by Willis' wife.

Three young children behind her skirts, she said he left about Wednesday night with "a few things" from their home.

"Don't you think," she asked, "he would have been freed even if he didn't go to Massachusetts?"

"What do you think?" was the response.

"I don't know. I sure am glad he was freed though."

Aid Promised. Aid was promised Willis by B. R. Wilson, attorney and president of the Boston branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"If he will work hard and behave himself," Wilson said, "we will help him get a job in his trade as a barber or some other job which will keep him from suffering."

Jesting with friends at the capitol, Governor Rivers said he had heard that some chain gang prisoners already were placarded with signs reading: "Spend your parole at Cape Cod."

HURLEY REMAINS SILENT ON RIVERS' ACTION

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Governor Charles F. Hurley, of Massachusetts, remaining today at the bedside of his sick eight-year-old daughter, declined to discuss the parole of a Georgia negro prisoner on the condition he spend the remainder of his sentence in Massachusetts.

The Governor was advised by his secretary of statements made by Governor Rivers that in retaliation for Hurley's refusal to surrender a fugitive to Georgia, "Hurley day" might be observed annually in Georgia to hear applications of prisoners for parole to Massachusetts.

SUGAR QUOTA ACT PUT INTO EFFECT; CONSUMPTION UP

Continental Growers Will Be Permitted To Supply Bulk of Increase.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace put the new sugar control law into effect today, increasing his estimate of sugar consumption in the United States this year and authorizing continental cane growers to supply the bulk of that increase.

The new law, signed by President Roosevelt last night despite his opposition to some of its provisions, sets up a new formula for apportioning the American sugar market among domestic, insular and other areas.

Acting under that formula, Wallace boosted the estimate of 1937 consumption 380,000 tons and then apportioned the increase as follows:

Continental cane growers (Florida and Louisiana), 172,129 tons; continental beet growers (Colorado, California and other western states), 19,785; Cuba, 92,115; Philippine Islands, 49,562; Hawaii, 11,865; Puerto Rico, 9,446; Virgin Islands, 3,934; foreign countries other than Cuba, 1,000.

As a result of the increases, the year's total quota for continental cane areas became 442,793 tons and that for continental beet regions 1,633,361.

AAA officials said the new law authorizes benefit payments to growers on sugar marketed after July 1 this year. Congress has not appropriated the $50,000,000 estimated necessary for the payments, but since they will not go out before next spring it will have an opportunity to do so at the January session.

Final Tribute Will Be Paid Today To Thomas Hamilton in Augusta

Heart Attack Claims Postmaster, Former Editor at Residence.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Thomas J. Hamilton, postmaster here and former editor of the Augusta Chronicle, died of a heart attack at his home here late last night.

He was stricken shortly before 11:30 p. m. after he had retired from station WRDQ, of which he was recently named an official. There had been no previous reports he was ill.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock at the First Baptist church, with the Rev. L. D. Newton, the Rev. Paul Audill and the Rev. C. L. Midgwick officiating. Interment will be at Westover Memorial Park.

Pallbearers will be Mayor R. E. Allen Jr., B. E. Lester, J. J. Carswell, L. S. Moody, Dr. Evans Davis, J. O. Green, Bailey Munday and John Harris.

Born in Grovetown. Hamilton, long an important figure in the development of Augusta and surrounding territory, was born in Grovetown, Ga., November 20, 1885. He was a son of William Winslow and Katherine Fleming Hamilton.

He attended Mercer University at Macon. Graduating from Mercer he began his newspaper career in 1906, an avocation which he pursued until recent weeks, when his connection with the Chronicle terminated.

He first worked as a reporter on the Augusta Herald, but two years later, in 1908, became city editor of the Chronicle.

Four years afterward he returned to the Herald as managing editor, and remained there seven years.

In 1919, he returned to the

THOMAS J. HAMILTON.

Chronicle as editor and president of the Chronicle Publishing Company, and made a name for himself and the paper in all fields touched by progressive journalism. Hamilton sold his interest in the Chronicle in 1929, but remained as editor until last August 4. During his years as head of the paper he took on outside interests, especially politics and the development of the Savannah river.

So overall did the friends of William Gibbs McAdoo consider his qualifications that in 1924 they selected him to handle the McAdoo campaign for president in Georgia. In that same year he was named a delegate to the Democratic national convention, in Houston, and in 1932 represented Georgia as a delegate to the Democratic convention at Chicago in which President Roosevelt was nominated for the first time.

Waterway Booster. Prior to the 1932 convention, Hamilton had been named president of the Savannah River Improvement Commission, and in that capacity started developments for the Savannah watershed which he carried on until the time of his death.

A crowning touch to his efforts along that line came last spring when the $2,000,000 lock and dam at New Savannah Bluff, a few miles south of Augusta, was dedicated. He also devoted much time and effort to development of the Savannah river as a navigable stream between Augusta and Savannah, and worked untiringly for the proposed $22,000,000 storage dam and hydro-electric plant at Clarks Hill, 22 miles from Augusta. This project has received approval of army engineers and government surveyors and only a few weeks ago Hamilton and his associates were informed by President Roosevelt that the project was on the preferred public works projects for next year.

Barge Line Dreams. Federal barge lines also were a dream of the former editor, and before his death he shared in having brought to Augusta a special investigator for the Inland Waterways Corporation who is seeking to determine whether the proposed barge service is feasible.

Back in 1933, Hamilton received his first appointment from President Roosevelt, that of chairman of the Georgia State Advisory Board of the Public Works Administration. He served in that capacity until the board was dissolved.

Later in that year, he was appointed postmaster of Augusta by the President, a position he held at the time of death.

He continued throughout his later life his interest in politics, and took active part in the 1936 Democratic national convention in Philadelphia. During that convention he said President Roosevelt should be returned to office because of the way he had strengthened the nation's banking systems with the people by deposit insurance if for nothing else.

Honored by Poland. He had honors aside from political, however, and in January, 1935, was awarded the order of Polonia Restituta (Knights of Poland Restored) for being instrumental in the cementing of friendly relations between the United States and the Polish government. The honor was bestowed upon him by the son of the president of Poland at a dinner in Augusta.

He also was a trustee of Mercer University, a director of the Augusta Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Knights of Pythias and the Modern Woodmen. In addition he was a Shriner and a Mason.

He took active interest in development of the entire section in which Augusta is located. He was a member on the Georgia Forestry Association.

Hamilton was married twice, to Mrs. Daisy Ramsey Hamilton, in 1908, and last year, to Mrs. Katherine Mobley Sullivan Hamilton. He has three children by his first marriage, two sons and a daughter. The daughter, Alice, and the youngest son, Walton, spent the summer in London visiting their brother, Thomas J. Hamilton Jr., a member of the London bureau staff of the New York Times. Miss Hamilton is now en route to the United States. Her young brother preceded her here.

Other survivors are his widow and five sisters, Mrs. H. Verdery, of Harlem, Ga.; Mrs. D. A. Howard, of Gaffney, S. C.; Mrs. T. A. Norvell, Mrs. W. L. Strauss and Mrs. A. S. Crawford, all of Augusta.

ACKERMAN PRAISES HAMILTON'S SERVICE. Tribute to the civic accomplishments of Thomas Hamilton, Augusta postmaster and former newspaper editor, who died Wednesday night in Augusta, was paid yesterday by M. H. Ackerman, postoffice inspector in charge in Atlanta.

"Tom Hamilton made Augusta what it is," Ackerman said. The postal executive, who spent many years as postal inspector in Augusta, swore in Hamilton as postmaster. The two had been closely associated there for years. Ackerman left here last night to attend the funeral services in Augusta.

ATLANTA THEATER NEWS

Gable, Harlow, Loy On Rialto Screen

Responding to reiterated requests by a large proportion of his patrons, Manager W. T. Murray announces a week's engagement beginning today of one of the most successful pictures ever made, starring the late Jean Harlow and with Clark Gable and Myrna Loy also in leading roles.

The picture is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Wife vs. Secretary," with Gable as the young businessman, Myrna Loy as the wife and Jean Harlow as the secretary. This is the only picture ever made with the three great stars together.

The story is a fascinating study of the business and social relationships of a youthful executive. Deeply in love with his wife, his sole interest in his decorative secretary is her high office efficiency and the jealousy that develops is really without foundation.

How the two women together work out the situation provides fascinating entertainment. Clever short subjects complete the program. "Wife vs. Secretary" will be shown on the Rialto screen for the full seven-day week, including Sunday and closing next Thursday night.

Kay Francis Vehicle Comes to Paramount

Kay Francis' gifts as a portrayal of highly emotional scenes will be displayed to audiences at the Paramount theater starting today when she appears in her newest starring vehicle, the Warner Bros. drama "Confession."

"Confession" was adapted from the continental stage play, "Ma-zurka." It has to do with a once-great opera singer, now reduced to cabaret jobs, who learns that the man who has betrayed her is now a powerful figure in the city.

Others in the cast include Donald Crisp, Dorothy Peterson, Robert Barrat, Laura Hope Crews, Ben Welden, Mary Maguire, Helen Valkis and Veda Ann Borg.

'Artists and Models' Featured at the Fox

With Jack Benny heading a cast of screen and radio stars in "Artists and Models" laugh fans are given ample guarantee for a solid hour of fun in this super Paramount musical at the Fox theater this week.

There is a stellar cast including Ida Lupino, Gail Patrick, Richard Arlen, Ben Blue, Judy Canova, the Yacht Club Boys, Louis Armstrong's Swing Band and England's famous and beautiful model, Sandra Storm. Specialty acts and routines by Martha Raye, of the cavernous mouth; Judy, Anne and Zeke, radio hillbillies; Connie Boswell, torch singer; "The Water Wretches" and six great American artists, Pete Arno, McClelland Barclay, Arthur William Brown, Rube Goldberg, John LaGatta and Russell Patterson are highlights of the picture.

The story of "Artists and Models" begins with Jack Benny trying to sell Ida Lupino, a model, to Richard Arlen for use in his advertising campaign. But Dick has promised his fiancée, Gail Patrick, the job which will ultimately determine the queen of the Artists and Models Ball whose chairman is Jack Benny. Then follows a merry mad scramble.

"Artists and Models" boasts six new song treats. Whispers in the Dark, "Public Melody Number One," "Pop Goes the Bubble," "Sasha Pasha," "Stop! You're Breaking My Heart" and "Mr. Esquire."

'The Good Earth' Now At Loew's Grand

When Irving Thalberg died a few months ago, he left, as one of the compelling proofs of his genius, the magnificent film version of Pearl Buck's Pulitzer Prize novel, "The Good Earth," which has already been shown at Loew's Grand theater at advanced prices, and which now returns, at regular prices. Luise Rainer and Paul Muni are co-stars in this exciting story of a Chinese farmer and his faithful wife—a story which is universal in its application.

Pearl Buck, daughter of a missionary, lived many years in China, and learned to know the kaleidoscopic life of that ancient country, with its ageless culture and its immortal sentiments. "The Good Earth" is the story of Wang (Paul Muni), the Chinese peasant farmer, and of his wife, O-Lan (Luise Rainer), of their devotion to the soil, in times of famine and in times of peril or prosperity. It is the ever-new story of man's seeking after security and a home, and of a woman's love for her family and her husband. "The Good Earth" is a film of beauty and poetry, most expertly produced.

Capitol To Offer Unusual Program

The Capitol theater management has selected an especially strong stage and screen program to be offered at that theater starting Sunday, with the screen offering of "San Quentin" a special production having to do with California's famous prison of the same name.

Stars are Pat O'Brien, Humphrey Bogart, Ann Sheridan and Barton MacLean.

In "San Quentin" O'Brien has the role of the captain of the guards which brings him into close contact with Humphrey Bogart, one of the toughs of the "big house."

On the stage starting Sunday the Capitol will offer "Bubbling Over Revue," starring a large cast of stage and radio names. Current screen offering is "Nancy Steele Is Missing," starring Victor McLaglen, Walter Connolly, June Lang and Peter Lorre with "Show Boat Frolics" on the stage.

OFFICER FACES TRIAL IN DRUNKENNESS CASE

Trial of Patrolman Mercer White on charges of drunkenness is scheduled to be held tonight by the police committee. Alderman G. Dan Bridges, chairman, said yesterday.

White was suspended several weeks ago after officers reported finding him at home in an allegedly intoxicated condition.

'Freckles' Gets His Official Welcome

Governor Rivers extended Georgia's official welcome yesterday to "Freckles" Ray, former leader in the famous "Our Gang" comedies, here to aid the Disabled American World War Veterans at a dance Saturday evening at the Shrine mosque. Following the greeting by the Governor, "Freckles" was honor guest at a luncheon given by the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Henry Grady hotel. Governor Rivers attended the luncheon and invited "Freckles" to his office to sit in the Governor's chair and rest his feet momentarily upon the executive desk.

MARBLE IS GIFT

Quarry Offers Stone for 500 Georgia Historic Markers. Natural Resources Commissioner M. F. Burch Jr., announced yesterday selection of Georgia marble for use in marking 500 historic sites throughout the state.

He declared a Georgia quarry has offered to furnish the necessary marble to the state without cost, and that each will bear a bronze plate describing historical importance of the site marker.

Markers in rural areas along principal highways will be surrounded by one acre picnic areas to provide resting places for tourists.

Patriotic organizations will help select sites, he said.

'Freckles' Shakes Executive's Hand On Arrival Here

"Freckles" Ray, former juvenile screen star, favorite of silent films, was officially greeted by Governor Rivers yesterday when he arrived with his famous 16-piece orchestra and 10 acts of vaudeville.

Honor guest at a luncheon of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Freckles was then invited by the Governor to visit his office, where he was allowed to place his feet on the executive desk.

Here in the interest of World War veterans, whose national mascot he is, the youthful star will visit the Veterans' hospital at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon to present a special program.

Tomorrow night and again on Monday night at 8 o'clock he will present his troupe at the Shrine mosque.

Beginning in pictures at the age of 3 years, Freckles soon rose to a pinnacle of success envied by many. He has been made the youngest life member of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, whose members have paid up his dues through 1939. He is also a member of the Junior and Senior Chambers of Commerce, Lions and Exchange clubs.

INSTALLMENT XXXII.

"I may—may be obliged to see her," he acknowledged reluctantly. She stiffened. Then, abruptly, she burst out, "I don't know what it all means, Tom—but I'll have faith—and pray for you."

"My darling," came from him huskily. "Bye—dear."

The click on the other end of the wire was like a sharp slap on Velma's tear-stained face. She sank into the nearest chair and tried to select a reason, out of the dozens swarming through her mind, for Tom's hectic trip to Chicago. Was it somehow connected with that platinum blonde he had with him in the Bertrand bar? What could an apparently fine-minded man like Tom have in common with that decidedly uncultured girl? But then, hadn't she seen Tom when he was far from refined? Hadn't she even talked to him when he was in one of his wild, rough moods—after he'd darted from that dark-alley? What did it mean?

Crying like this wouldn't settle her problem. As she dried her eyes, she noticed her checkbook on the table. It reminded her of Louise and the check that must be mailed to her. Now that she had actually talked with Tom, it might be more important than ever to keep her part of the bargain with Louise.

She went to the little desk and quickly dashed off a ten thousand dollar check for the girl who was constantly scheming to take Tom from her. She addressed an envelope and sealed the check inside.

She made out another check for the exact amount that Clarence Pell had paid over to Mae Forland so that her salary would be $75 a week instead of the $25 the other girls in the shop got. Although her thoughts were in a turmoil, she recalled with gratitude Clarence's kindly effort to help her when she needed help most. Poor Clarence! How forlorn he had looked at Lake Ingus when he had proposed and she told him she didn't think she would ever marry; and then after she had discovered the subterfuge under which she received her salary, and faced him at the dress shop, and he had diffidently renewed his proposal, and she told him she couldn't marry him because she did not love him.

She placed the second check in an envelope addressed to him, along with a note again thanking him for what he had tried to do for her. She also told of her good fortune in recovering part of her father's estate. Sealing the envelope, she dropped it in the hall mail chute. She had already taken care of all her old debts to Chicago shops.

Louise's check she would take to her later. She must receive further assurance from Louise that her side of their unusual agreement was on the level. Louise had reacted oddly to the proposal this noon.

She called the Clark residence and was told that Louise would be out of town until the end of the week. That was strange. Only an hour ago, Louise had been with her. Was there anything sinister about the fact that both Louise and Tom had left town about the same time?

Oh, why must she be so suspicious of every circumstance that was even remotely connected with Tom? She loved him; she knew that—despite everything. She must love him or she wouldn't be trying to buy Louise off.

She began to think more connectedly about the proposal she had made to Louise. Why had she thought of offering such a girl $10,000 in exchange for love—a love which Louise took so seriously? From the Carryville standard, Louise and Maude Clark were wealthy. Their camp at Lake Ingus was a camp in name only. It was luxurious; it had everything to attract and hold the many guests Marie Clark used to entertain there—perfect bathing, tennis, dancing, a stable of riding horses, in fact everything the most exacting visitor could demand.

The blunt, unattractive Maude she could understand. Velma could almost smile when she recalled Maude's vulgar attempts to "put her in her place" after Marie Clark's death. Maude said just what she thought: "You are no longer the Velma Wilkins because the Reed Wilkins millions are gone." And when Maude "discharged" her as social secretary—it was true that Marie had made the position for her but only after she had learned Velma's true worth and her creative flair for entertaining—she had practically told her that she had been living on the family's bounty.

But Louise? From the moment of Tom Orville's arrival in Carryville she had connived to keep him and Velma apart. There had been no open antagonism until it had soon become evident that Marie's influence over both daughters was slight. Louise was a climber, it was true, but to marry Tom Orville, who was just making his way in the world, would not add to the Clarks' social prestige.

The more Velma tried to reason things out, the more involved the situation seemed to become. And she could not figure out to her own satisfaction why she had thought, or hoped, that $10,000 would influence Louise when it came to giving up Tom Orville—rather to agreeing to allow Tom to choose between them.

For the remainder of the week, Velma lived in acute suspense, the greatest suspense she ever had experienced. No word came from Tom, no word from Louise what did it mean?

On Saturday, she again called Louise and learned she was expected late that evening. Velma decided to go downtown to an early movie, then go on from there to the Clark home.

She got on a bus, and sat beside a middle-aged man, who was engrossed in an evening newspaper. Nearly every seat was occupied. She began to wonder if any other passenger were so peculiar an errand as her own. She began to wonder if she were, after all, doing the right thing. Louise might take the check, but not play fair.

The bus stopped before a modern apartment hotel. It might be convenient to live in such a place, she thought, but she wouldn't make any changes before Tom returned. She would remain at the Y. W. C. A. Possibly, she wouldn't care to remain in Carryville after their next meeting. He might be entangled with that platinum blonde girl in Chicago to such an extent that love between him and herself would be preposterous.

The bus stopped on the corner by the elaborately illuminated Mammoth theater building. Velma glanced through the window at the milling crowd outside. There must be a good picture here. The line from the ticket booth extended nearly a block. She was half inclined to stop here instead of going on to the Main street theater as she had planned.

As she turned her head, her eyes were suddenly arrested by the picture of a man at the top of her neighbor's newspaper. She leaned nearer him, took a flashing glance at the inscription below the picture.

"Oh, no—not Tom!" she moaned, slumping to her neighbor's shoulder.

She had seen a familiar face pictured on that newspaper page, and read, "Orville a suicide in Chicago."

The kindly middle-aged man, little dreaming his newspaper had been the cause of breaking this lovely girl's heart, assisted her out of the bus and into the corner drug store. After an aspirin, a drink of water, and a whiff of smelling salts, she thought she was able to go home. The kind man, who said he was Sam Maloney and had a daughter about her age, insisted upon accompanying her in a taxi back to the Y. W.

She was in a daze. Tom Orville a suicide! It couldn't be! But then, the Tom she knew, or thought she knew, could not have been the man who killed a jewelry salesman in a dark alley and robbed him of $10,000. He had acted so strangely when she went with him to his mud-splattered car. And he had soon stopped and roughly ordered her out. And the wallet with the $10,000 that fell beside her as the door slammed and the car shot away! And then later he had evaded an explanation, asking her to have faith in him.

Tom Orville—gone! As the taxi carried her towards the Y. W., this chain of thought ran on endlessly and always came back to the same thing: Tom Orville gone!

It was difficult to thank Mr. Maloney when he bade her good night before the big bronze doors. How she managed to reach her room she never knew.

All will power seemed to have left her. She only knew that Tom—her Tom—was gone forever. He must have wanted to go—to leave her—he had deliberately cut himself off from her. Oh, she couldn't endure it! There must have been some miserable mystery connected with that girl in Chicago. Now, she never would know what that dark blot on Tom's past had been. Yet—she couldn't believe it—she had all been dark. No matter how she tried, no matter how circumstances might prove it, she couldn't believe it.

"Oh, Tom, Tom!" she cried, bursting into a flood of tears as she threw herself at last on her bed. "Oh, darling—how could you?"

It was along toward midnight when Velma became conscious of her clothes. Wearily, she got up, slipped them off, and got into pink silk pajamas which she wished were black. She should be wearing black now, shouldn't she? Oh, there was nothing left without Tom!

WRECKED ON CAPE BRETON ISLAND.

In the Atlantic Ocean, north-east of Nova Scotia, is Cape Breton Island. It has an area of more than 3,000 square miles. A century and a half ago, a wreck took place on the coast of the island.

One day the wind died down enough to make another trip to the wrecked ship. Two chests of onions, one chest of potatoes, about 120 pounds of beef, some tallow candles and some tools were taken ashore.

That was the end of the food supply from the sloop. What would happen if all those still alive should try to spend the remaining months of the winter at that spot? The figures showed that the food would last only six weeks more, and the chances were that hunger, if not the cold weather, would end the lives of all.

Hoping to obtain help, Ensign Prenties and five others boarded the lifeboat. A sail was rigged up, and they sailed along the coast. Enough food was taken along to last a few weeks.

Hails were made each night. The men slept ashore and built fires to keep warm. No village was found, and the food supply gave out. Dry fruits of the sweet-brier were dug from under the snow, and were eaten. The boat had become very leaky, and any day it seemed that further travel in it might have to be given up.

PEOPLE WILL SET CAMPAIGN ISSUES IF REAGAN OFFERS

McDonough Lawyer Reserves Right To Decide Whether To Run for Senate

Ed L. Reagan, McDonough attorney and former legislator, declared yesterday that should he enter the race for the state senate from the 35th senatorial district the issue in the race is "to be determined by the people of our county."

Mr. Reagan, who has served both in the senate and house of representatives, said "there is no issue between Governor Rivers and myself." Ralph L. Turner, of McDonough, announced his candidacy for the senate Wednesday and at the same time pledged his support to Governor Rivers and his program. Mr. Turner is a lieutenant colonel on the Governor's military staff.

Position Explained. Mr. Reagan explained that previous to the last gubernatorial campaign that he promised to support Governor Rivers in the event that Senator Charles D. Redwine was not a candidate. Redwine, who is distantly related to the McDonough lawyer by marriage, entered the race and was defeated.

Mr. Reagan's statement follows: "My attention has been called to an article in Thursday's issue of The Constitution in reference to selection of a senator to serve for the proposed extra session of the legislature from the county of Henry, this article of political propaganda presumably inspired by Ralph L. Turner, of McDonough, offering himself as a candidate for this office."

"I would not be making this public statement were it not for the fact that in the article I was made an object, and singled out as an apparent obstacle to Mr. Turner's undisturbed journey to the state senate."

Prejudice Claimed.

"It is pointed out in this article that the issue between us will be Rivers and anti-Rivers, and published for the purpose of creating prejudice and as an effort to array a coat-tail following in behalf of Mr. Turner, as his only hope of gaining this office. The article goes so far as to state that Reagan, a lawyer, is a close friend

'Seers' Fail Too See Visitors Are Police

Even spiritualists can't see everything, two practitioners learned yesterday as each plunked down $50 and costs on the recorder's desk after conviction of illegally telling fortunes.

Their downfall came when they failed to "see" they were giving seances to members of the local constabulary.

The convicted spiritualists were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fromshon, of Washington street, who contended they were not telling fortunes, charged no money and were persons who had studied the art. Their only medium was that provided by nature—concentration—they claimed.

Detective Dock Sims, Police-woman Mrs. Vannie McDonough and Mrs. Clyde C. Aven visited the spiritualists before the arrests were made. Neighbors complained to police they were unable to find parking space for their cars because of numerous visitors to the Fromshons. That started the police investigation.

of Senator Charles D. Redwine, of Fayetteville, whom Rivers overwhelmingly defeated for governor last year. I wish to state that Hill P. Redwine, brother of Senator Redwine, married my sister years ago and has raised a family. Wish further to state that before last governor's race was begun I wrote and told Governor Rivers that I would support him under any and all circumstances in his race for governor, in event that Mr. Redwine did not run.

"There is no issue between Governor Rivers and myself. We have been friends for years and all times past."

"I have never at any time stated that I would be a candidate for this senatorial office, and in fact did not intend to be a candidate. I wish however now to state for the benefit of the public that should I see fit and decide to yield to the insistence of my friends and citizens and enter this race, you may rest assured, that in my county of Henry it will not be such outside issues as have been intimated, but the issue to be determined by the people of our county will be as to which one is held in the highest esteem and confidence by our people and regarded as more fitted, more capable and more experienced; and principally among all the issues, as to which one of the candidates has kept better faith with our people."

Inbound traffic on Peachtree street at Eleventh street was tied up yesterday afternoon for some minutes when a trolley span pole gave way and fell on an automobile owned by Mrs. J. ## Wholesale Gang Break Illustrates Use of Road Patrol as Escape Bar

Author of Measure Points to What Might Have Been With Increased Man Power and Squad Cars Equipped With Radio.

Wholesale escape of seven convicts from Banks county chain gang yesterday brought an illustration last night from State Representative Clem E. Sutton, of the future usefulness of the new state highway patrol in capturing such escapes.

In an interview sought by The Constitution, Judge Sutton, who "fathered" the state patrol idea in the last legislature and is now general counsel, said that an escaping convict would have very little chance of getting away after the patrol goes into operation next Tuesday.

What Might Have Been. "If we had enough men and cars—say about 240 men, instead of the present 70—we could make it impossible for a carload of convicts to get away," he said. "A fleeing prisoner would have to walk to make his escape good, even if he could get away then."

"But even with our limited number of men he would find it hard to get out of the state without apprehension."

Asked what the procedure

MASS BREAK FREES SEVEN FROM GANG

realized the five armed and desperate men might be lurking near by awaiting a chance to break into homes to get food, more ammunition and money.

Many women barricaded themselves. The men, for the most part, had joined posses combining the hills for the desperadoes. Sheriff Farrie Brewer, of Banks county, swore in 40 men as special deputies. Sheriffs of Franklin, Jackson and Madison counties had called their deputies to join the search.

All roads out of the county were closely guarded.

Warden T. D. Jones thought the men might head for Atlanta or possibly the Massachusetts convict haven.

The fugitives were led by James Gardner, Banks county native, convicted in March for stealing a bale of cotton. He is under two-to-five-year sentence.

Other white men at large are Roy Phillips, sent up from DeKalb county under long term sentence; Ed Arnold, from Franklin county, under long-term sentence for manslaughter; Bill Parks, life term recently transferred from the state prison farm, and Charles Bryant, transfer from the state prison farm and under 40-year sentence.

Life-Term Gives Alarm. Bill Yates, life-term and driver of the truck, was forced out and it was he who returned to camp and spread the alarm.

With the guards sitting in the truck with them, the seven continued their flight, apparently lost their way, and drove through Commerce. They attracted no attention as observers thought the guards were merely taking them to work.

Homer officials said the truck, when found abandoned later on the old Gainesville highway between Lula and Homer, had been about 85 miles during the afternoon.

Once outside of Commerce, the white men stopped and cut their chains with a Cole chisel and hammer found on the truck. This required about an hour.

The guards were then put out at Nell's Grove about three miles from the convict camp which is approximately halfway between Commerce and Homer.

Before releasing the guards, the fugitives removed their clothing yesterday afternoon. Wood and Gordon got clothes in Maysville and then returned to camp late Number Uncertain.

For a long while Warden Jones did not know how many of his convicts had escaped. Poses were immediately organized in all adjoining counties as soon as Yates returned with information of the escape. The convicts were working on a new road, Route 29, between Commerce and Carnesville.

Both abducted guards had had previous trouble with convicts, it was reported. Gordon shot a prisoner six weeks ago and Wood was tied up and left in a field by some escapes not long ago, it was said.

After reaching the prison camp safely, Gordon frankly admitted he had been frightened. "I was mighty afraid. The boys threatened to kill us if we offered any resistance. They talked among themselves what to do with us. They decided to tie us to a tree and started to do it a few miles out of Commerce, but a woman was standing on a nearby porch."

"The boys saw her and said 'Let's get farther down the road.' That's when they drove into Commerce not knowing they were headed towards town."

After the guards were thrown out the truck, they hailed a passing car and went to Maysville, where they got overalls, shirts and underwear, Gordon said.

"At one time I was afraid they would surely kill us and Bill Yates, too, for when they first grabbed our guns Bill came running around the truck with a big sledge hammer and tried to hit the ring leaders over the head. I am mighty glad to get back to camp and I don't believe any one of the five will be taken alive," Gordon concluded.

Hughes made his break about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon while working on a mountain road about five miles east of Jasper. He had been on the Pickens gang only a few months.

As Hughes "took to the bushes," guards fired "six or eight" times at the fleeing convict. They believed at least one bullet found its mark, Hughes told, but regained his feet and escaped. Guards chased him for several hours unsuccessfully.

Guards Comb Mountains. A posse of 50 men combed the mountains last night. Bloodhounds were brought from Cobb county to aid in the manhunt. Leading the posse are Pickens County Commissioner H. G. Jones and County Warden Charlie Killian.

Roads leading from the territory in which the escape was made have been closed and posse members are patrolling them.

Hughes, listed in Atlanta police files as Wallace Hughes Jennings, 23, killed G. C. Moon, of 494 Fourteenth street, N. W., and W. D. Hamilton during a holdup robbery of the Hartman's cafe at 105 Luckie street on June 9, 1932. He was captured after a long chase.

Hughes was originally sentenced to be electrocuted but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by the then Governor Talmadge. The plea for mercy was granted seven hours before he was to have died in the chair.

Sent to a south Georgia prison camp, Hughes escaped twice and was recaptured, Jasper officials reported.

Two negro survivors of the sunken freighter Tarpon were brought here late tonight for medical attention after they had reached shore by clinging to wreckage of one of the ship's cabins.

Neither could swim. The tide brought them to the coast, 35 miles west of here, after they had been in the churning gulf nearly 36 hours. They were completely exhausted.

One of the negroes, Dozier White, who was steward on the Tarpon, said he and his companion were separated from other survivors about 4:30 p. m. yesterday.

Baker, from Mobile, Ala., said he had been in the water from 8:45 a. m. yesterday. He reached shore at 10 a. m. Fishermen estimated he swam and floated between 25 and 30 miles.

Negro Goes Down.

Baker said he saw Captain W. G. Barrow, 83-year-old skipper, and most of the crew on the surface, either swimming or clinging to wreckage, when he struck out for shore, but one negro went down.

Baker, 25-year-old seaman, stumbled to a beach west of Panama City today to tell of the disaster.

Baker, from Mobile, Ala., said he had been in the water from 8:45 a. m. yesterday. He reached shore at 10 a. m. Fishermen estimated he swam and floated between 25 and 30 miles.

Negro Goes Down.

Baker said he saw Captain W. G. Barrow, 83-year-old skipper, and most of the crew on the surface, either swimming or clinging to wreckage, when he struck out for shore, but one negro went down.

Two negro survivors of the sunken freighter Tarpon were brought here late tonight for medical attention after they had reached shore by clinging to wreckage of one of the ship's cabins.

Neither could swim. The tide brought them to the coast, 35 miles west of here, after they had been in the churning gulf nearly 36 hours. They were completely exhausted.

One of the negroes, Dozier White, who was steward on the Tarpon, said he and his companion were separated from other survivors about 4:30 p. m. yesterday.

In the high mountains of Peru, an airplane can sometimes transport materials in an hour that would not arrive for 14 days on the backs of llamas.

Those saved and carried to Pensacola by the Triton and an ambulance were:

George Wolfe, Mobile; W. R. Wolfe, Mobile; Clyde McMillan, Mobile; Nixon Davis, St. Andrews, Fla.; George Boykin, Mobile; William C. McKnight, Carrabelle, Fla.; L. E. Danford, St. Andrews; Floyd B. Mattair, Pensacola, and Cecil Smith, Mobile.

Labor Day Week End Lures Atlantans to Various Resorts

By Sally Forth.

LABOR DAY, traditionally known and celebrated as a last fling at summer vacations, will not go unnoticed this year. Many members of Atlanta society will trek to the mountains and seashore for the week end which extends over Monday.

Highlands, Tate Mountain Estates, Lakemont, north Georgia and Sea Island will be marked up on the calendar as the spots to be visited by congenial groups for the holiday. The day will be a farewell to summer, for next week society will turn to fall and winter activities, the debutantes will soon make their appearance and many other events will mark the autumnal season.

Highlands will be particularly popular, Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Maddox, who have a cottage there, will entertain as their guests their brother and sister, Bob and Cecile Maddox, and Charles and Catherine Nunnally. Another Highlands party will be composed of Charlie and Theodore Black, John and Josephine Grant, Grady and Eloise Black and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Becknell.

Fishing will claim the attention of Mr. and Mrs. Joel C. Harris Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Graves, who will be in Ponte Vedra, Fla. Virginia Marshall and her parents, Dr. and Mrs. James A. Wood, will be at their cottage at Sea Island.

Up in Blairsville, in north Georgia, a group of the younger set will assemble at the mountain lodge of Jim Morton. Jim and his pretty fiancée, Lamar Perschau, will act unofficially, of course, as hosts, but after their marriage next month it's safe to say that many parties will be held there in the future with "Mr. and Mrs. Morton" as hosts.

Jim and Lamar have a sentiment about the lodge, for it was during the Labor Day house party given last year by Jim that he and Lamar became engaged. In the party who will be Jim's guests for the coming week end will be Harry and Epsie Dallas Bulce, Frank and Barbara Prater Terrell, Aileen Timmons, Margaret McCarty, St. Julianne Pringle, John Furnace, Sam Nelson and Norman Ramsey.

Thought of Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn Harris remind Sally that this popular couple will entertain Mr. and Mrs. William H. Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foreman Jr. and Mrs. Richard Johnston at their home at Highlands.

"Kingwood," the handsome old colonial home of the King family at Clayton, Ga., will form the setting for the house party given by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Keyes, of Miami, the latter being the daughter of the late George King. In the party will be their son, Ken Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Montague Suttles, of Miami; their sister, Mrs. Dewey Nabors; Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Chalmers, George and Jane Niles, Clara McConnell, Charles Griffin, of Boston, and others.

Lakemont, another north Georgia resort, will attract Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stevens, Dr. W. B. Black, and Hayden Jones Sr. and Hayden Jr., who will be at the Marshall's cottage.

The Tate Mountain Estates, always a popular spot, will find many Atlantans spending the Labor Day week end there. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rogers, their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lorton, of Tulsa, Okla., are at the mountain, as are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walsh.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Martin will not entertain any house guests for the week end, they will have a family dinner party this evening. The occasion will be in honor of Mr. Martin, who will celebrate his birthday anniversary today. Guests for the occasion will be the son and daughter of the family, Bob and Margaret King Martin, and their two children. Throughout the Estates there will be many house parties at the summer homes of the Atlanta colony there.

At the Joe Winslow home, young Lillian will entertain a group of the younger set, including Jaquelyn Thiesen, Louise Lamar, Mary Clayton and Peggy Gottschaldt. Nell, the elder daughter in the family, is visiting friends in Columbus and will remain there for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dobbs Jr. will be hosts for the first Labor Day party at their new home and will have as their guests Ray and Mary Candler Edmondson, Harris and Virginia Dearing Robinson, Cody and Dorothy Dobbs Laird and Lewis Dean.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodloe Yancey, who spent the greater part of the summer in Europe, will have a family party over the week end and will entertain Mary Ella Yancey, Margaret Colbert, Mrs. Carolyn Alexander and Mrs. Roy Sims.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Moise will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ott Alston. Professor and Mrs. Arthur Armstrong will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Molly Williamson and their daughter, Marjorie Armstrong.

While Laura Shallenberger was at camp in New Hampshire her parents wrote her of the laundry which they were having built in the basement. However, they made no mention

ARE YOU ONLY A THREE-QUARTER WIFE?

THERE are certain things a woman has to put up with and be a good spouse. Men, because they are men, can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness three weeks in a month and a hell on the rest of the time. No matter how much she loves him—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "singing through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three weeks of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "singing through."

Miss Foster Weds Robert O. Pitts Jr.

The marriage of Miss Kathleen Foster, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Foster, of Weogufka, Ala., and Robert O. Pitts Jr., of Cedar-town, Ga., and Cincinnati, Ohio, was quietly performed here on Friday morning at 11:30 o'clock at the Peachtree Christian church by Rev. Robert Burns in the presence of the immediate families of the bride and groom. Mr. and Mrs. Pitts left immediately after the ceremony by motor for a short wedding trip. They will return to Atlanta to reside temporarily in Morningdale.

The bride was attired in a smart gray tulle ensemble worn with a small black felt hat and other accessories. A shoulder bouquet of gardenias graced her left shoulder. Mr. Pitts is the brother of Lewis G. Pitts, of this city, and the son of Mr. R. O. Pitts, and the late Mr. Pitts, of Cedar-town.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan C. Gottschaldt announce the birth of a daughter on August 30 at Crawford W. Long, whom they have named Kay Walker.

Mrs. Douglas Boyd and Miss Elva Boyd, of Birmingham, Ala., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cutter Jr. at their home in Walker terrace.

Ward Simms left yesterday to spend two weeks with William Dabney at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Dabney, in Highlands, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. McGregor Jordan, of Macon, arrive here today and will be attendants in the wedding of Miss Evelyn Stephenson and Charles Holder at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Ponce de Leon Baptist church. Mrs. Jordan will be matron of honor for Miss

PERSONALS

Stephenson who was her maid of honor when she was married on April 28.

Mrs. Ben Watkins is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ben Watkins Jr. at their home in Columbus.

Miss Hazel Hardin and Nat Hardin, of Forsyth, are visiting their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Eickert Jr. on Ponce de Leon avenue in Druid Hills. Miss Hardin leaves at an early date for LaSalle school near Boston.

Mr. Hardin will enter Harvard. He graduated at the University of Georgia in June and returned recently from an extensive tour of Europe.

Rev. G. W. Gasque returns at an early date from a summer spent in European travel.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Turner Lewis announce the birth of a son, Charles Jr., on August 26 at Emory University hospital. Mrs. Lewis was the former Miss Elizabeth Spurlock.

Miss Betty Fielder, of Columbus, is visiting friends in Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Dickson announce the birth of a son on August 31 who has been named Richard Alan. Mrs. Dickson was formerly Miss Jeanette Carolyn Jassa, of this city.

Miss Mildred McConnell, of Clearwater, Fla., is visiting her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. H. Z. McConnell.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray A. Traylor announce the birth of a daughter, Carol Jane, on August 27 at Crawford W. Long hospital. Mrs. Traylor was before her marriage Miss Carolyn Powers.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Muser IV, of Harrisburg, Pa., arrive next week to visit Dr. and Mrs. Dewey

Nabors on Delwood drive. Mrs. Muser is the former Miss Elizabeth Tyson and has many friends here made during previous visits to Mrs. Nabors.

Miss Irene Leftwich arrives in New York the last of September after spending July and August at the Fontainebleau School of Music in France. Before sailing for home, Miss Leftwich will visit Switzerland, Germany and England.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Young announce the birth of a daughter on August 30 at Emory University hospital, whom they have named Sarah Margaret. Mrs. Young is the former Miss Mary Keith, of Gainesville, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Smith are in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Park and son, Ray, have returned to their home in West End after a visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Chandler, at Wimauma, Fla.

Miss Nevin Honored.

Miss Ida Nevin continues to be honored at parties prior to her marriage to Robin Brookshire, which takes place this month. Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Dunlap will honor the bride-elect with a mid-day dinner on Sunday at their home on Peachtree street and Tuesday evening Mrs. G. F. Willis will entertain a few close friends of Miss Nevin at a spenser dinner at her home on Brentwood drive.

Mrs. Hugh P. Nunnally complimented Miss Nevin yesterday at luncheon at her home on Blackland road, guests including a limited number of friends of the honoree.

Mrs. Charles J. Holditch and her daughter, Mrs. J. Bryan Willingham, have returned to Atlanta after spending the month of August at Fonte Vedra, Fla.

Miss Alsine Shutze And E. T. Brown Jr. Married at Decatur

The marriage of Miss Alsine Shutze and Edward T. Brown Jr. was solemnized last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Decatur Presbyterian church by Dr. D. P. McGeehy before an assemblage of relatives and friends. A program of appropriate selections was rendered by Walter Wauchope prior to the ceremony.

The church was attractively decorated with palms, foliage plants and floor baskets of Easter lilies. Amid the foliage seven-branched candelabra, holding gleaming white tapers, were arranged.

Ushers were Graham George and Ennis Parker. Walter Ulman, of Marietta, and Virgil Shutze, the bride's brother, were groomsmen. They entered with the bridesmaids, including Mrs. Samuel Callaway and Miss Myrtice Mattison. Mrs. Eugene Bothwell, matron-of-honor, entered alone. The bride's attendants wore beautiful gowns fashioned of hyacinth blue lace posed over matching taffeta and with short matching velvet jackets. They carried bouquets of Talisman roses and blue delphinium tied with peach-shaded ribbon.

James L. Stanton Jr. was the groom's best man and the bride was accompanied to the altar by her father, James E. Shutze, by whom she was given in marriage. The bride's dress was fashioned of blue pink satin trimmed with antique lace which formed the square-shaped yoke, and the narrow cuffs to the long satin sleeves. A flared train of the satin extended several yards in length and was covered by billowy layers of flesh-tinted tulle held to her hair with a becoming lace cap confined on either side of her head by slender sprays of orange blossoms. The beautiful veil is the same that was worn by Mrs. Graham George, the former Miss Catherine Coates and Mrs. Charles Ewing, who before her recent marriage was Miss Dorothy Coates. The bride carried an exquisite bouquet of white rose buds and valley lilies.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Shutze, the bride's parents, were seated at a reception, the guests being limited to members of the bridal party and out-of-town guests. They were assisted in receiving by the bride and groom and the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Brown.

Mrs. Shutze was attired in a Du-bonnet lace made over matching taffeta, and she wore a shoulder bouquet of gardenias. Mrs. Brown's gown was fashioned of blue lace made over taffeta to match and a spray of gardenias graced her left shoulder. Palms and foliage plants were arranged throughout the rooms in which the guests assembled with baskets of white cut flowers arranged on the tables and mantels. A real lace cloth covered the bride's table in the dining room and three-tiered bride's cake embossed in white and green formed the table's centerpiece. Silver candelsticks holding burning white tapers were arranged around the cake and at either end of the table were plateaus of white flowers.

Mrs. A. Q. Baldwin, Mrs. Ernest Kendall, Miss Vella Marie Behn and Miss Alice Frierson assisted in entertaining.

Mr. Brown and his bride left in the late evening for a honeymoon by motor, the destination of which was not revealed. For travelling the bride wore an ensemble fashioned of beige crepe worn with a short brown fur coat and brown accessories. A shoulder cluster of salmon-shade roses and valley lilies completed her smart travelling costume. Mr. and Mrs. Brown will reside on Glendale avenue in Decatur after their return from their wedding trip. Out-of-town guests attending

Miss Wiseberg and Mr. Greenblatt Marry at Quiet Home Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wiseberg announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Harriet Wiseberg, to Sidney R. Greenblatt, which took place on August 28 at the home of the bride's parents at 1241 Fairview road, with Rabbi David Marx officiating in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white satin fashioned along princess lines and her veil of bridal illusion tulle was caught to her head with a coronet of real lace and pearls. She carried a bouquet of orchids and valley lilies.

Miss Greenblatt is a graduate of North Avenue Presbyterian school and is a student at the University of Georgia, where she will resume her studies in the fall. She is the sister of Arthur Wiseberg Jr.

Mr. Greenblatt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Greenblatt and the brother of Mrs. Jack Cohen. He is a graduate of Boys' High school and the University of Georgia.

Following a seated dinner for the immediate families after the wedding, the young couple left for a wedding trip to Miami, Fla., and Havana, Cuba. On their return they will reside in Athens, Ga.

the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. John I. Igou, of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Martin, of Spartanburg, S. C.; and Mrs. Virgil Cox Jr. and Miss Minnie Cox, all of Columbus.

Stover-Bradshaw.

Miss Dorothy Elizabeth Stover, of Spartanburg, S. C., became the bride of Wiley Don Bradshaw, of Atlanta, on August 30, in Spartanburg. Judge Dewey D. Foster, justice of peace, officiated.

Their friends B. R. Roper and Mrs. Sealy Tindall, of Spartanburg, witnessed the ceremony. The bride is the younger daughter of John P. Stover and the late Mrs. John P. Stover, of Greenville, S. C., and the sister of Mrs. Claude Shaw and Bill Stover, of Greenville, and Fred Stover, of Los Angeles, Cal.

Mr. Bradshaw is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bradshaw, of Greenville, Texas, and the brother of Roscoe Bradshaw, of Marion, Ind. Mrs. Frank Mize, of Lake Worth, Fla.; Mrs. A. R. Clayton, of Greenville, Texas; Mrs. Lloyd Wallace, of New York city, and Mrs. J. E. Caldwell, of West Palm Beach, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw will make their home in Atlanta where Mr. Bradshaw is associated with the Frost-Gotton Motor Company.

SCHOLASTIC GROUP TO SEND 400 HERE

Phi Beta Kappa Will Hold 19th Triennial Convention Next Week.

Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic honorary society, will send more than 400 delegates to the nineteenth triennial convention of the order here next week.

Numbered among the delegates, who comes from 120 educational institutions, will be many leading educators.

Principal speakers will include Dr. Dumas Malone, director of Harvard University Press and editor of the Dictionary of American Biography; Dr. Howard Odum, director of the University of North Carolina; and John K. Clark, president of the New York State Board of Bar Examiners.

The delegates will meet at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel September 8 for a three-day session, with a meeting of the Phi Beta Kappa senate, executive body of the organization.

Acting as hosts are Alpha, Beta and Gamma chapters of Georgia, connected respectively with the University of Georgia, Agnes Scott College and Emory University. Business sessions will be devoted to planning for the next three-year period, electing new member institutions and revising the constitution and by-laws of the order.

MRS. R. B. BURROWS DIES IN HOSPITAL

Cerebral Hemorrhage Claims Life of Active Figure in Church Work.

Mrs. Robert B. Burrows, Atlanta churchworker, died unexpectedly at 1:10 o'clock yesterday morning in a local hospital of a brain hemorrhage. She was 50 years old.

For many years a member of St. Marks Methodist church, she had served as an officer of Alonzo Richardson Bible class in addition to her other religious activities. She lived at 844 Parkway drive. The body was taken yesterday to Columbia, S. C., for funeral services at 4 o'clock this afternoon from Dunbar Funeral Home there. Burial will be in Columbia.

Surviving are her husband; two sons, R. B. and Herbert Burrows; a sister, Mrs. G. M. Miller, of Columbia; and her father, A. D. Cumsty, of Columbia.

BOARD WILL SET MILK ELECTIONS

Two More Areas Ask Vote on State Jurisdiction.

The State Milk Control Board will meet here today to fix election dates in two new areas applying for the board to take jurisdiction.

Ten areas of the state already have voted to adopt the milk control law, under which competitive practices and prices are regulated. The new applications are from Cordele and Griffin, Director Charles Duncan announced.

Governor Rivers has been asked to attend the meeting.

Party Is Recruited For Historic Jaunt

MARIETTA, Ohio, Sept. 2.—(AP)—If you think you're hardy enough to chaperone an ox team from Ipswich, Mass., to Marietta, Ohio, you're just the man the Northwest Territory Celebration Commission is looking for.

The commission, which plans to start its history-tracing trek December 3, wants 36 men, in fact, for the 10-month journey over the route of Ohio's early settlers and on through six states which once were part of the Northwest Territory—2,800 miles in all.

"While some hardships may be encountered, the trip will provide a real experience for those accepted," the commission wrote, adding that it wanted "energetic young men" between the ages of 20 and 35.

INJUNCTION LIFTED ON SURVEY SCHEME

Governmental Examination To Proceed With Withdrawal of Litigation

The way was cleared for the city-county financial survey under the direction of Dr. Thomas H. Reed yesterday as the temporary injunction preventing Fulton county from paying its third of the $19,000 cost was withdrawn from superior court files at request of the petitioner.

W. H. Irwin, of Hapeville, as a taxpayer, brought the suit for injunction August 12, at which time Judge Virgil B. Moore temporarily restrained the county commission from paying out $6,333.33 as its share of the three-way financed plan—designed to eliminate overlapping departments in the city and county governments.

Irwin was believed to have withdrawn the suit after Chamber of Commerce, which is to share a third of the cost of the survey, had persuaded him that it would be in the best interest of the taxpayers if the survey were permitted to proceed.

ROBERTS ASKS PEG FOR COTTON SEED

Decline in Price Hits Tenant Farmer Hardest, State Commissioner Points Out

Commissioner of Agriculture Columbus Roberts joined officials of other states yesterday in asking the federal government to stabilize the price of cotton seed.

Roberts cited a present level of $22 a ton for seed compared to $30 last year in a telegram to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. "This decline in price," he said, "is hitting tenant-farmers hardest, as they are not in position to hold seed for higher prices."

Roberts dispatched the message just before leaving for Memphis to discuss with agricultural commissioners of other southern states the problems of cotton control and price stabilization for next year.

He was accompanied on the trip by Hamilton Ralls, of the marketing division of the department.

SEARCH FOR GIRL MOVES TO JERSEY

Youngster Vanishes After Row Over School.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The search for 13-year-old Constance Lyman centered to-night in Alpine, N. J., where police believed she might have gone after crossing the Hudson river on a ferry from near-by Yonkers, New York.

Detective Maurice Kelly, of the New Rochelle police, reported by telephone from Alpine tonight that three residents of near-by Englewood reported seeing a similar girl there last night.

Constance, daughter of Charlton Lyman, 10-cent store executive, disappeared Tuesday on her bicycle with traveling equipment after an argument over her entering school this fall.

Her bicycle, broken, was found in Ridgefield Park, N. J.

Chatham Hits Homer, Triple, Single as Crackers Win, 7 to 4

Practice was just finished at the Rose Bowl field. "Come on," said Mr. Robert E. Lee Dodd. "We've got to get there ahead of the Old Man."

Whereupon the assistant coaches fled in a body, almost crushing some of the football squad at the gate. Mr. William Alexander, "The Old Man," smiled benignly after them.

"They can't take it," he said.

You see, Mr. Alexander has a cold water rule at the Flats. When the players come in from practice, tired and warm, they do not step under a hot shower. They step under cold water. Nothing else will come out of the pipes.

If Mr. Alexander arrives first at the coaches' dressing room he permits nothing but cold water there. On Wednesday the suffering was intense. The Messrs. Mack Tharpe, Bobby Dodd, Roy Mundorff and Roy McArthur did not bathe until they reached their homes.

Mr. Alexander, the old Spartan, took the cold water in stride, threatening to splash his sybaritic assistants who were shivering in a corner, trying to don their clothes.

Yesterday they outfitted him back to the dressing quarters and enjoyed their steam hot shower before the head coach returned.

"Father" Lumpkin, the great fullback of the 1928 team which won the national championship, was the only player who refused the cold water at Tech. "Father" evaded cold baths by the simple expedient of not bathing at all. One afternoon the players sought to put the fullback under the shower.

"Father does not care to bathe until Saturday night," he said, shaking them off.

A very positive person, Roy (Father) Lumpkin. And, in the language of the radio announcers, "What a fullback! What a fullback!"

MR. ALEXANDER'S ESTIMATE.

A lot of people are asking about Mr. Alexander's Georgia Tech football team. And so, adopting a very novel and daring idea, I asked Mr. Alexander about it.

"Well," he said, as we walked briskly along toward the practice field, "it sums up to me in about this fashion: The boys who return have all had a year's experience. They know more and should be somewhat smarter. That much for the general idea."

"We have about the same backfield men with us again. We also have more backfield reserves than we had last season. Fletcher Sims as yet has no definite replacement and that is a problem, the chief problem."

(Finding a replacement for Fletcher Sims is like finding a replacement for money. He does everything except blow up the football.)

"The line," continued Mr. Alexander, "offers a problem. We have back our two ends, one tackle and one guard. In other words, we have back only four of last year's starting linemen, beginning at the ends. Also, as yet we do not know what the line reserves will be. There is an indication they might not be so plentiful."

"And so, it would look as if we might have a team somewhat more experienced, perhaps slightly improved as to offense as far as the backs are concerned, but with the line making things doubtful. We'll have to see about that line before we know if the offense can get going even though it does have an improved potentiality."

So, that seems to be it. If the line reserves and

QUALIFIERS LED BY GARLINGTON IN 1ST DAY PLAY

Qualifying Will Continue Today for Capital City Tourney.

T. R. Garlington, with a 10, set the pace Thursday in the first of four days of qualifying for the first annual Capital City invitation tournament next week.

J. H. Buxbaum, a newcomer to Atlanta's golf circles, followed close behind Garlington with a 74, two strokes over par. Charlie Black Jr. and Bud Bicknell followed in order.

The qualifying rounds will continue today for players who will be out of the city during the week end.

Sunday and Monday also will be given over to the qualifying with the first-round matches scheduled for Tuesday morning.

Sunday will also be given over to practice for players who have qualified or who expect to qualify Monday.

The tournament is open to every amateur golfer in Georgia and adjoining states.

Other scores in Thursday's round included:

R. H. Hardwick, 78; Arch Martin, 80; Jimmy Wilson, 80; Carroll Latimer, 80; Sam Draper, 80; Billy Johnson, 81; R. C. Wilson, 82; W. R. Medlin, 84; Charles Nunnally, 86; John W. Grant Jr., 86.

MCLEOD BREAKS 99 TO RANK 7TH

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Sept. 2. Georgia today, for the first time since 1929, placed a man in the high 10 in the United States.

Lieutenant H. A. McLeod, of the national guard team, fired a brilliant 99x100 at 1,000 yards in the Wimbledon cup match to place seventh in the United States.

Captain E. M. Sasseville, also of the guard team, not to be outdone by Lieutenant McLeod, put himself in a 13-way tie for first place when he shot a perfect score in the Scott trophy match at 300 yards rapid-fire. The tie for first place will be shot off at a later date.

In the President's match, the match in which 100 marksmen receive medals and letters of commendation from the President, Georgia placed one man for sure and in all probability another. Lieutenant Paul Spangler, with an aggregate score of 143 out of 150, placed in the select hundred. Johnny Norman, the only Georgian previously to place in the hundred, shot a fine score of 141, which will probably place him again.

Harold D. Allen, Springfield, Mass., emerged victor from the tie shoot-off in the 50-meter, any sight small bore match, with a perfect 200. William E. Woodring, East Alton, Ill., was second and Erwin Menzen, Atlanta, Ga., third.

Harry Harkins Breaks 98 Targets.

DETROIT, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Frank Kelly, of West Orange, N. J., and Odie Walding, of Los Angeles, two of the best-known gunners in the nation, and Don Searls, of South Lyon, Mich., a "dark horse," shot their way into the lead of the all-gauge event of the national skeet championships at the Blue Rock Gun Club today by breaking 100 targets each.

The second 100 targets will be shot tomorrow and the final 50 targets will be fired Saturday.

Scores shot by Georgia gunners for the first 100 targets follow: L. C. McDonald, Atlanta, 86; Dr. L. A. Childs, Atlanta, 85; C. H. Jones, Atlanta, 86; Harry Harkins, Atlanta, 88; C. L. Boardman, Augusta, 92, and Jack Boardman, Augusta, 95.

LAWSON SEEKS TITLE TONIGHT

Buck Lawson, southern lightweight wrestling champion, will get his long coveted return chance at the world's middleweight crown to night at the West End arena in a great match with Gus Kallio, present holder of the title.

Lawson, clever grappler, known as the "Silver Fox" of the ring, dropped a close match to Kallio seven weeks ago at the West End arena.

Lawson, whose crafty ring tactics have won a large following here, wrestled the southern title from Tarzan Ben Jordan six months ago and since has defended it successfully approximately 25 times.

Doc Poole will try to live up to the "he man from Texas" stuff in a one hour semi-windup match with shifty Jack Layden, of Denver, Col.

Tiger Joe Ferrona, New York's Italian gift to the wrestling world, who has just returned from Florida, will find a warm reception in the 30-minute opening match with Sam Almond.

Happy Yarn will referee the three matches.

There were only 897 ladies and children present last night as the Crackers observed Men's Night with a fine attendance of 15,422 and a 7-4 victory over the Knoxville Smokies. Maybe the ladies were waiting for the double-

GRANT WINNER AT FOREST HILLS

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 2. (AP)—Alice Marble, of San Francisco, today successfully opened defense of her national women's singles tennis title with a first-round straight-set victory over blonde, sun-tanned Jacqueline Horner, of France. The scores were 6-3, 7-5.

What amounted to little more than a warm-up for stiffer competition to come was engaged in by Hannel Henkel. The 22-year-old German, doubles partner of Baron Gottfried Von Cramm and ranked second to him in the foreign division, disposed of Russell Bobbitt, Atlanta, Ga., youngster, by 6-1, 7-5, 6-0.

The discrepancy between the scores of the first and last sets and the second was due to the fact that Henkel eased up in the latter stanza and used his blistering first service only after the southern lad led at 5-3.

Frankie Parker, of Milwaukee, and John McDiarmid, Princeton University professor were the first seeded American men to go into the second round, Parker in straight sets, McDiarmid with the loss of the first set taken from a ranked competitor. Seeded No. 7, he eliminated Lewis Wetherell, of Los Angeles, 6-1, 3-6, 6-7, 6-0.

Parker's victim was William Gillespie, of Atlanta, who bowed before the Davis cup star to the tune of 6-2, 6-1, 6-0.

Argyll Frier Rice, West Hartford, Conn., defeated Gladys Valle-Buona, Atlanta, Ga., 6-4, 6-1, in a woman's singles match.

Bryan M. Grant Jr., Atlanta, Ga., defeated Murray D. Deloford, England, 6-4, 9-7, 6-3.

Janus Heidman, Hollywood, Cal., defeated Arthur Hendrix, Lakeland, Fla., 7-5, 12-10, 3-6, 6-3.

Martin Buxby, Miami, Fla., defeated Gerard B. Podesta, Montclair, N. J., 4-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-1.

Wilson, ranked second in Canada, dropped a 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 decision to Merrimon Cunningham of Nashville, Tenn., for the lone break in the seeded ranks.

The only other match that had even the semblance of an upset was the victory of Charles Harris, of West Palm Beach, Fla., over Gregory Mangin, former national indoor champion from New York.

Mangin, ranked fifth in the nation last year as compared to Harris' No. 8, nevertheless didn't create any great disturbance as he was eliminated, 6-0, 6-1, 1-6, 2-6, 6-0.

'Fog' Callaway Races At Lakewood Sunday

"Foggy" Callaway, a Macon boy now living in Miami, Fla., has added his name to the imposing list of trouble-jammers to compete in the two-day auto race program at Lakewood Park Sunday and Monday.

The elder Callaway, brother of the equally famous "Buddy," is a familiar figure in Atlanta's dirt track history, and will pilot a Johnny Mait, of Atlanta, well-known racing engineer.

The one-mile Lakewood track will be in perfect condition for the contestants when the time trials are inaugurated on Sunday after-

Cracker Player of 1886 Meets Crackers of 1937

"Bill Powell," Shortstop of First Team, Comes Back After 51 Years.

By RALPH MCGILL.
"What," said Buster Chatham, "did you say 1886?"
The Cracker shortstop of 1937 had just met the Cracker shortstop of 1886. A span of 51 years separated their playing days.
William H. Brown, hale and hearty and "just a little bit past 73 years of age," last night saw his first Atlanta ball game in more than a couple of decades.
He was shortstop on the first team—the one of 1886—when Henry Grady, the famous editor of The Atlanta Constitution and one of the nation's great writers and economists, was serving as president of the league because of his great regard for the game of baseball. They won the pennant that year.

TRAPSHOOT HERE TO DRAW STARS

The south's outstanding trapshooters will invade Atlanta September 11 and 12 for the Southern States skeet championship shoot at the Capital Gun Club.

Included in the list of entries are such well-known marksmen as Dr. LeRoy Childs, Jack Tway, Add Smith, all of Atlanta; Walter Sams, of Athens, and Sam Ham, of Gainesville. Smith is considered the leading contender for the crown.

A full two-day program is scheduled. There will be five events—the Southern States class championship, the junior championship, the ladies' championship, the small-bore championship and the team race.

The class championship will open each day's shooting with the other events being run concurrently. It will consist of three classes, A, B, and C, and 100 targets.

The junior shoot is open to boys under 17 years old, while the small-bore event is open to .410 and 28-gauge guns.

Prizes and trophies will be awarded the winners and runners-up.

RECORD SCORE.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Opal S. Hill's 66, turned in during tournament play yesterday, received tentative recognition by the United States Golf Association today as a world record for women.

BRADDOCK, BAER SIGN FOR FIGHT

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Contracts were formally signed today for a 15-round heavyweight bout between James J. Braddock and Max Baer, both former champions, in Madison Square Garden, October 29.

Mike Jacobs, whose 20th Century Sporting Club will promote the fight, said it would be the first in a tournament from which an opponent for Champion Joe Louis will be selected.

The bout will mark the opening of the comeback attempts by both former champions.

MEETS INFIDELERS.

He met all the infidellers and they were properly impressed. "Well," said Hugh Luby, "I hope I look as good as you when I am 73 years old."

"Gosh," said Johnny Hill, "fifty one years ago he was playing shortstop for the Crackers. Gosh."

Paul Richards, the catcher, spoke up and said, "Well, well, well, I feel better. I didn't know ball players could live that long."

Mr. Brown was something of a sensation during his brief visit to the bench. Later he occupied a front row box just behind the dugout and saw the game from there.

THE OLD PARK.

When he played baseball here the park was at the old Peters park, at the corner of North avenue and Peachtree street. He plans to come back tonight for the double-header. He may stay over for the "Old Timers" game on September 12. President Earl Mann extended him an invitation to the game and banquet.

Then men's night game, the second annual such event, was a tremendous success. The men were admitted free. The ladies had to pay. The park was jammed a half hour before the game began. And there were 897 ladies who paid their way to demonstrate their loyalty to the Crackers.

There were only 897 ladies and children present last night as the Crackers observed Men's Night with a fine attendance of 15,422 and a 7-4 victory over the Knoxville Smokies. Maybe the ladies were waiting for the double-

JUNIOR SERIES.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The East Lynn (Mass.) junior American Legion baseball team took a two-game lead in the "Little World Series" this afternoon by beating New Orleans, 5 to 0. Ray Bessom, who hurled his team to victory Monday, repeated the triumph today, allowing only five hits.

14 FOR LEONARD; DOUBLE-HEADER SLATED TONIGHT

Vols Gain Half Game on Atlanta by Beating Lookouts Twice.

By JACK TROY.
The Crackers had plenty of witnesses to the fact that last night they won their sixth straight game. So please don't say it isn't so.

There were 15,422 men's night fans present as Wee Buster Chatham led the big assault that kayaked Knoxville, 7 to 4. Actually, there were 14,479 men on hand.

Evidently, it's all a mistake. I mean that old saw about it being the woman who pays. Shucks, counting the children, there were only 897 at Ponce de Leon park last night.

OUTSTANDING CHATHAM.

But maybe the thought of so many men scared them away, however, and the ladies (bless 'em) were saving up for tonight, which is their night.

TWO GAMES TONIGHT.

At any rate, the Crackers last night won their sixth straight game and their third in a row over the smoldering Smokies. And tonight,

Understruck for Sims Tech's Chief Problem

EDWARDS, BEERS TO GET CHANCE AT QUARTERBACK

Passing Drills Occupy
Second Day's Work
at Flats.

By JACK TROY.

If Bobby Beers, of Newnan, develops he may very well ease the minds of the Georgia Tech coaching staff no little.

Bobby Beers is a sophomore. A sophomore player. And Bobby Beers, who backed under Red Barron, is a lad who can pass and kick and run with the ball.

He will make a real understudy for Fletcher Sims—if he develops.

Tech particularly needs another kicker for an emergency such as would be caused if Fletcher Sims were out of action.

Scrappy Edwards is a logical understudy for Sims. He can do everything but kick. But he is experienced.

And so it may develop that it will be a two-man job. That is, a two-man job of understudying Fletcher Sims, who will call signals, kick, pass, run with the ball, catch passes, haul back punts, place-kick and do anything else that may fall to his lot.

FINE DAY

A hot, sunny day greeted the Jacket squad yesterday. And, all the loose ends, so to speak, having been gathered, there was only one varsity player absent. That was End Tom Allen, who will report on Labor Day.

Jim Morgan and R. L. Ison, the other two ends who missed opening day, were on hand yesterday and took part in the full-fledged workout.

Some innovations were noted in the training procedure. In order to encourage sidestepping among the backs Bobby Dodd and Roy McArthur equipped themselves with straps. And a sort of "side-strapping" drill followed. When there's the knowledge that failure to throw a wrinkle means a good healthy whack on the back of the pants or bare legs, a back is inclined, more or less, to shake a leg.

"DANCE" DRILL

A sort of dance step drill for the linemen and leap frog for the backs were other items of training introduced yesterday. They did everything except dance the big apple or the Suse G.

The Jackets worked under the aforesaid broiling sun for some two hours. A lot of conditioning work was consummated.

Significant, indeed, was the fact that passing drills took up most of the work in formations. Then, too, players in groups of three ran up and down the field laterally the ball between them.

The old razzamatz was quick in making its appearance, lending plenty of credence to the report that the Jackets are going in for passes on a larger scale than ever.

A punting drill, with Sims, Beers and Bobby Dodd doing the kicking, and the balance of the squad either covering or hauling the punts back, occupied part of the day's work.

OLD FRAME DISCARDED. Tech has done away with the big six-man bucking frame and in its place has appeared a smaller frame designed for the development of linemen in the use of hands.

Tech varsity players, as a whole, appear to have reported in good shape. Ole Koon Konemann ran several miles during the afternoon. In the various drills, and stood it well. Fletcher Sims' passing eye was very keen. Beers also showed a real ability for passing, as well as kicking.

To the critical eye of those on the sidelines, including several ex-Tech players—Fay Wee Williams, Lefty Eubanks, Jack Phillips and Bud Lindsay—the boys' physical condition was a matter of favorable comment.

Among the spectators was Oscar Coe, Coach Alex's "double." Mr. Coe is an old Tech follower and one of the team's most ardent supporters. There is a striking resemblance between him and Alex and often they have been confused for one another. Especially has Mr. Coe been confused for Coach Alex. But that's another story.

Atlanta Team Wins In Softball Tourney

One Atlanta team, Brooks-Shatterly, the city champions, survived the initial round of the Georgia state softball tournament by defeating Rome, 2 to 0.

The Georgia Power Company team, which was runner-up in the city tournament, was eliminated by College Park, 1 to 0. Other scores were: Carrollton 2, Griffin 0; Lagrange 5, Athens 3; Canton 8, Roswell 3.

In the second round Brooks-Shatterly and Americus play at 8 p. m. at Piedmont. Carrollton and LaGrange play at 8 p. m. on Tech High field. College Park and Gainesville play at 9:30 at Piedmont, and Canton and Macon at 9:30 on Tech High field.

PEBS NEED TWO MORE.
LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 2.—Little Rock and Memphis, running one-two in the Southern association pennant race, were rained out today, providing an opportunity for the Travelers to end the race and cap the first in a large evening—if they can sweep the resulting double-header tomorrow night.

A championship for the Travelers was still not a mathematical certainty, but a slim chance of a pennant was still a possibility. A random look at the pennant race could rob the Pebs of a pennant if they have not had since 1926.

With 50 wins, 49 losses, a percentage of .497 and 14 games to play, Little Rock today led the home-stretch pack by 11 games ahead of Memphis.

HAYGOOD'S KNEE STANDS UP WELL IN EARLY DRILLS

Mehre Says Bulldogs Are in Rotten Shape for Football.

By FELTON GORDON.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 2.—Hampered by an avalanche of blisters that resulted from new shoes, the University of Georgia football squad this afternoon underwent a drill stressing the basic elements of training.

Encouragement was given the coaches by the way Tommy Haygood's right knee is standing up under weight. The hefty Atlanta tackle still must take it easy. He may run, but must watch the leg in charging. A piece of cartilage was removed from his right knee at an Atlanta hospital this summer. He was injured on the last play of the last "game" of spring.

With the exception of Billy Mims, of Atlanta, who has poison ivy, the squad turned out intact again today. Wednesday was the first time since Coach Mehre has been coaching that all his proteges were on hand for the first day's drills. Usually, one or two living in other states are slow reporting.

PLENTY OF ACTION.
Plenty of action in today's hour and half drill showed up some of the boys who may have taken a rest this summer.

Coach Harry Mehre emphasized that the fact that the squad needs plenty of conditioning and seasoning before it can take the rough bumps safely. "They're in rotten condition for football," he observed after yesterday's drill. "In order to build up the wind and toughen them, coaches are seeing that plenty of running is on the menu. Punting sessions have a prominent place on the program."

Charging and blocking tactics are keeping the linemen busy in an effort to gain leg drive. Coach Mehre ordered Manager Waddie McKinty to make arrangements for the field equipment to be placed in condition by Saturday afternoon. He also intends issuing shoulder pads this week end to the linemen.

Although reluctant to make a prediction, Coach Mehre said he might reasonably expect the outfit to be ready for their first scrimmage Saturday week. The rough work starts Monday and from then on out the squad will be put through rugged chores.

SIGNAL DRILLS.
The afternoon session was closed with the usual squad signal drills. They were divided as follows: Lumpkin, center; Smiley Johnson and Bruce Long, guards; Clayton Wilkie and Dave Smith, tackles; Otis Maffett and Marvin Gillespie, ends; Andy Roddenberry, quarterback; Vassa Cate and Oliver Hunnicutt, halfbacks, and Jimmy Fordham, fullback. On another team were Buddy Milner, center; Walter Troutman and Pete Tinsley, guards; Bill Badgett and John Davis, tackles; Carroll Thomas and Ned Barbe, ends; Lew Young, quarterback; Harry Stevens and Sanford Vandiver, halfbacks, and Captain Bill Hartman at fullback.

Blisters troubled a flock of the players today. Many again worked out in stocking feet. Andy Roddenberry, Al Moss, Buck Geer are among those beset with feet blisters caused by their new shoes. Shorts were worn again today but it is probable that the uniforms will be issued Friday.

Petrels Face Gloomy Year

Football prospects grew no brighter at Oglethorpe University as only 17 candidates—the smallest number in years—reported to Coach John Patrick for the first serious practice.

The last man to report was the huge tackle, Jerry Tillery, who was missing for the first day's session.

Three inexperienced sophomores and one veteran reported for the backfield positions. Martin Kelly, former Tech High star, will probably take over the full-back position.

Coach Patrick said yesterday it was doubtful whether he would have one fair team out of the small squad and emphasized the fact that he would have to make it an "iron man" club.

Langdale Mill Beats Lanett in Third Tilt

LANETT, Ala., Sept. 2.—Langdale Mill defeated Lanett Mill, 7-4, in the third game of the final play-off series of the Chattahoochee Valley league.

The first game played was tied and Langdale won the last two games. Davis, Langdale pitcher, gave up four hits in the first inning but no more until the eighth.

Billy Hitchcock, Auburn's football star, and Ralph White were the stars of the day, each getting three hits, and Sands, McNair, Davis also stood out. Starring for Lanett were Crowe, Anderson, Beard and Morgan.

Lanett 200 000 010-4 6 2

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

NO MYSTERY ABOUT SCURVY.

A reader wrote the other day that he was one of the few cases of pellagra in his part of the country. Probably many thousands of persons there are somewhat affected with pellagra, but generally they drift along in a low state of health for years, indulging in nostrums or self-doctoring, and not until they are nearly down and out do they come under medical observation. Even if they were compelled to seek medical advice at the very outset, the chances are that most physicians would fail to recognize what ails them, for it will be some time before physicians are prepared to recognize nutritional deficiencies in their earlier stages.

Scurvy undoubtedly escapes recognition in many instances, in infancy and childhood, and even in adult life.

The fully developed scurvy we saw in infants when you and I were young, Maggie, does not get a chance to bloom today because nearly all mothers now know that the young infant must receive some fresh fruit juice or fresh or commercially canned tomato juice daily from the age of a few weeks, if the baby is to thrive. The fully developed scurvy was characterized by bleeding from the gums, sore swollen gums, foul breath, hemorrhages under the skin or under mucous membranes (causing black and blue discoloration)—these marks have given rise to unjust charges of harsh treatment or injury in many instances—pale complexion, soreness or tenderness in the legs sometimes mistaken for "rheumatism," or causing fear of "paralysis" because the patient does not move the legs.

More commonly mild scurvy causes merely a lack of physical and mental vigor, vague pains ascribed to "rheumatism," lack of appetite, a pale or muddy complexion, fretful or irritable disposition, failure to gain weight.

Growing children in a private school patronized the candy man with their spending money and passed up the fresh vegetables and fresh fruits the school table provided. Several of the youngsters fell behind in their studies, became pale and tired, irritable and morose. Then they were required to eat less candy and sweets and more fruit and presently they became regular lively youngsters again and began to catch up in their studies.

In sections where there is a long winter some of the people do suffer from inadequate intake of vitamin C toward spring. If they are unable to afford regular indulgence in citrus fruits or other imported fresh fruits or imported fresh greens, commercially canned (not home canned) tomato or tomato juice is always available and is a good source of vitamin C for anybody.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Callus.

What is the solution you recommend to remove hard callus from under the ball of the foot? (S. S. F.)

Answer—The standard corn remedy—paint corn or callus daily with solution of thirty grains of acid salicylic in one-half ounce flexible collodion.

Insulin and Underweight.
I am 20, 63 inches tall and weigh only 100 pounds. Want to gain at least 15 pounds. Please tell me about the insulin treatment. (M. B.)

Answer—In many cases of underweight the daily administration of five or 10 units of insulin, by the physician or by the patient under the physician's instruction, will build up weight and strength. This treatment is common use, and it is not necessary that the patient have diabetes. An optimal daily ration of vitamins B, G and D to supplement the diet will help many underweight individuals gain needed weight and vitality.

Just General Information.

Shopping with Sallybelle

Sallybelle was excited to find this shop where you can get custom-built dresses designed for your particularly difficult figure or you can walk out in this model of black crepe with satin girdle and necklace of gold beads.

Much of the chic and charm of your costume depends upon your shoe. This one of black suede sheaths your foot lightly on account of the adjustable step in. The heel and toe tip are of shining patent leather.

Sallybelle finds this dashing, very young beret of antelope very practical. It is tailored to wear with her street dresses, yet has quite a festive air for afternoon. A stiff quill of antelope juts skyward.

A roomy bag of antelope with patent trim. Classic suede gloves encircled by heavy gold bracelet in oak leaf design. For information where these styles may be found call the Fashion Editor of The Constitution.

WAYS OF GETTING A DOUBLE CHIN.

So you're getting a double chin! Well, it's probably your own fault—for twin chins are mostly bad habit.

If you have just an inkling of a double chin, check up and see how you are getting it.

How to Get a Double Chin.
Knitting: Knitters are apt to knit one, purl two, and tuck the chin under. A dropped chin is worse than a dropped stitch.

Reading: Reading in bed with your head propped forward is harder on your chin than on your eyes. Even reading while sitting up can do the damage—if you curl up like a pretzel. Bring the bottom of your book up to the level of your chin.

Myopia: It's much better to wear glasses than to have a double chin. Straining your head forward not only gives you a good start on a double chin but brings on a dowager's cushion at the nape of the neck.

Drooping: Letting your head droop forward like a sunflower guarantees an extra chin. This may be the worst fault of all, for it's an easy habit to acquire.

Check up on your chin. If you do one of these things, you are encouraging your chin to lead a

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Wednesday.—Our county fair brings people together who rarely meet anywhere else. It is an amusing thing to see people you haven't seen for a long time. Some of them do not change at all. Some of them grow up and, except for a family resemblance, you find it hard to recognize the chubby little child you knew years ago in the tall, slim girl you see today.

Yesterday a very handsome, slim, young woman, with black hair brushed straight back from her forehead, came up to me and for a minute I hesitated. Then my mind went back to the old days when I was growing up in Tivoli and I recognized the youngest of a group of cousins who lived in the place next to my grandmother's. She was Pauline Clarkson then, and I could not have called her anything but Pauline yesterday if my life had depended upon it, though she is married and has a different last name today.

There were some beautiful horses and ponies being shown, but the farm teams impressed me the most. Some of the strongest and finest horses I have ever seen were in the ring and driving around the field. The exhibits by individual farmers, who had gathered together everything produced on their farms, interested me greatly. The variety was quite astonishing and the arrangement was often very artistic.

I was quite proud of my sister-in-law's gardener, who won several prizes with his vegetables and had a most beautiful exhibit of flowers.

Four or five of us walked down the long street where the side-shows were set up. I was sorely tempted to stop and try to catch the little white balls which I saw tossed about in one booth, but I realized that if I did there would probably be a crowd around in a few minutes. Instead, we all had ice cream cones.

As always, the 4-H Clubs were interesting. I liked the group prize idea they have this year. I also like the opportunity they gave the girls, not only to make individual garments, but to gather together a complete outfit. This shows their taste in shoes, gloves, hats and pocketbooks. It is valuable as the judges give criticism from the point of view of what is becoming and suitable.

For the first time they had a stamp exhibit and I wish my husband could have seen it.

We dined with my sister-in-law last night and saw her new Scottie puppy, a lady with all the timid attributes of a lady, who completely won my husband's affections. She lay in his arms with complete contentment and though only a few months old, enough to put her cold nose up against his cheek and gently lick him.

The fog is heavy from the river every morning, but the sun seems to burn through in the daytime. Mrs. Scheider and I are starting off for a picnic in Connecticut.

PAINTED FINISHES.

"I am doing over my little girl's room."

"I am doing over my little girl's room," writes a reader who encloses a sample of powder blue wallpaper. "And would appreciate your suggestions. The blue wallpaper has to be used with a 9x12 hooked rug with blue, lavender, green and black all combined in a sort of diamond effect. The woodwork is white. I have several pieces of bedroom furniture I should like to have painted and had been interested in the flower designs used on some of the California furniture. Can you advise me about painting this, also would a spool bed or ladder-back type of bed be appropriate for painting that way? What would you suggest for curtains, perhaps a chair cover and a new dressing table skirt?"

Peach With Pastels.
For this room we think it might be interesting to paint the furniture in a soft peach color, then add the flower designs in pastel colors. We are rather skeptical about painting a spool or ladder back bed. They're usually quite nice and of good wood and we always think it's a shame to paint anything like that up. Of course, such a bed painted in an interesting color will be very pretty. With the furniture painted peach, we'd have fairly plain white curtains, spread and dressing table skirt—something dainty and starched looking like dotted swiss or crinkled organdy. The chair could be in flowered chintz.

Another idea for this room would be to paint the furniture lavender. It's lovely with blue. Here also we'd like white for curtains, spread and dressing table skirt, and flowered chintz for the chair.

Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Boykin, in care of The Atlanta Constitution, for the writer's bulletins, "Plans for Pleasant Bedrooms," or "Twelve Ideas for Making Your Bed Pretty." Both contain many hints for redecorating a bedroom, new or old.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name will be confidential. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

The leader of our crowd is suffering from some sort of a complex and we want to help her. She is witty, sincere, practical. Tall and athletic. She can cook a mean steak, sing well, play the piano like Eddie Duchin, discuss current topics and sports intelligently, dance, drive a car, swim, engineer a party expertly. Her brothers adore her and we can't find a fault in her. But she never had a date. The boys confide in her and she keeps their confidences religiously; they seem to take her for granted. For our part we have been so busy discussing our own Princes Changing that we haven't realized until recently that she had no heart to squire her about. Now that we have noted it we can't understand it and we want you to help us promote her cause. How can we make the boys see what they are missing?

ESTHER, JUDITH, MAXINE.

Maybe you can run your friend in on some double dates occasionally; appeal to your best boy friends to take her to a show now and again. This will help her find herself before the complex which makes her different renders her bitter and separates her from the crowd.

There's a possibility that with all her talent for leadership and her fine qualities of mind and character which make her such a swell friend, she's just not the sort to fire the imagination of the boys. There are scads of girls who fill the personality bill completely as far as their own sex is concerned while the boys can't see them at all. They are necessarily humiliated at being overlooked and the fact that their close friends fare better at the hands of the boys makes the comparison very painful.

There is no end to the subtleties these forgotten girls will resort to helping to hide their disappointment and to protect their wounded vanity. One of the commonest refuges is the masculine pose. They affect mannish haircuts and clothes, walk with long swinging stride, stand with legs wide apart, flat heels planted firmly on the ground, arms crossed or akimbo, looking as though they wanted the world to understand that they are simply able to roll their own without benefit of boy friends and beaux.

They don't fool anybody, not even themselves, and they have taken the worst possible tack; for femininity is the most attractive quality a girl can have. Certainly the boys sidestep any girl who flings away her feminine manners and copy-cats them—they are attracted to a girl who is a woman, not a man. Whatever the complex that makes a girl different from her girl friends and cuts her off from normal association with the boys, such as they enjoy, be sure she is suffering mental anguish, regardless of the front she puts up to hide her disappointment. Everybody that loves her should pitch in and help her get rid of the thing that keeps her from being admired and desired and dated which is the ambition of every girl child when she stands where the brook and river meet.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:
Of course I have been in love before but not like this. I can't not sleep, eat or think clearly so I know it is the real McCoy. On the first date he told me his story. He had a wife and child. He loved them and tried to keep them but her mother influenced her to leave him. He still offers his love, money and his home, none of which she will accept. I have checked the whole story and know it is correct. In spite of all I adore him. Everybody admires him and thinks he is fine. Please help me to win him.

SHIRLEY.

ANSWER.
Human nature being what it is; mostly hungry for love and appreciation, there is every reason to believe the deserted husband will succumb to your charms, once he is convinced that his wife has checked out finally. More comfort: Win a man's heart is a sure with benevolence, then, more than at any other time, he's any girl's prey. He wants to sob out his sorrow and the sympathetic female

Beauty, According To You

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Next Sunday's lesson sets forth God's teachings with reference to social justice, and the lesson committee arrests our attention with the statement that God "requires" social justice. It is not a mere matter of some man-made legislation, not the shibboleth of some reformer, it is God's command. Happily, the committee links these sterner words of the Old Testament with the impelling words of Jesus for the golden text: "As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise."—Luke 6:31.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

The lesson text is from the book of Leviticus—God's words, given through Moses, to the people through whom He was seeking to establish a nation. Social justice is from God; "I am Jehovah—ye shall be holy; for I am holy." His way of saying to us that He is just and righteous, and if we love Him, we will seek to be like Him. He gives us all things; we should regard ourselves, therefore, as stewards, and it is required of a steward that he be found faithful.

God's people are to be faithful in dealing with the destitute. "When ye reap, leave something for the poor and the stranger." And God's people are to be faithful in dealing with the defenseless. "Ye shall not deal falsely." Still again, God's stewards are to be faithful in dealing with the dependent. "Thou shalt not oppress nor rob the deaf and blind." And there must be faithfulness in dealing with the downtrodden. "Do not unrighteousness in judgment." Even in the case of wrong-doers God's stewards "shall not hate, nor take vengeance, nor bear any grudge." And for the aged, God's stewards are to have respect unto the "hoary head, the face of the old man."

If the people of God will take to heart next Sunday's lesson, we shall have no difficulty in meeting the responsibilities of the social order. It will become the delight of every neighbor to share one with another till there shall be no want anywhere.

Now Is the Time to Start Bleaching That Summer Tan

By LILLIAN MAE.

Already, I'm having odious calls from the summer sun enthusiasts who are anxious to be done with their tawny complexions. They've worked hard to obtain a deep bronze, which was very lovely against white and pastel shades—particularly the very popular white evening gowns of the summer. But now, they are tired of it all and want to be white again for fall and winter.

There are ways of bleaching, but the transition should be slow. A bleach advertised to do its work "overnight" is necessarily too strong for the average skin, and naturally leaves it so tender that it is very susceptible to the effects of wind or sun.

I can heartily recommend two products, both manufactured by the same reliable concern, which products DO bleach in a satisfactory manner. And when I say satisfactory manner, I mean that I've used them on my own sensitive face and neck with good results.

One of them is a white liquid and the other a pale pink cream. The former can be used directly after your facial cleansing, before the make-up foundation is applied. The cream is best used before retiring. When you get up in the morning it will have been absorbed, and I believe you will be able to notice a difference after only a treatment or two, though I do not mean that your job will be completed so quickly. To bleach properly and correctly, you must have patience and not neglect to apply the cream or lotion—or both—regularly.

GEORGIA GETS $43,211 FOR GAME RESTORATION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(P)—The wildlife restoration act signed today by President Roosevelt authorizes annual distribution of some $2,700,000 to the states that agree to co-operate. These included Georgia, which will receive $43,211.

Each state is required to adopt assenting legislation, but any Governor, until after adjournment of the next regular legislative session, may give his state's assent by executive order.

FINGERPRINT FILE FAILS TO PRODUCE CLUES TO ROBBERY

Crackers Sent to Newnan
by Atlanta Police.

Fingerprint records of the Atlanta police department failed to disclose any clues which might lead to the identity of robbers who stole more than $4,000 in cash and checks from two firms in Newnan Wednesday night, police announced yesterday.

Photographs of known local safecrackers were sent to Newnan police, who are checking a number of clues which they think may result in the capture of the robbers.

Principal loser in the thefts was the H. C. Arnall Merchandising Company, which reported a loss of $300 or $400 in cash and $2,500 in checks.

The Coca-Cola bottling plant reported it had been robbed of $289.01, of which all but $50 was cash, and a number of the plant's records. The combination of the safe had been removed.

One clue followed up by Newnan police was a description of two men who applied for jobs at the plants Wednesday. They aroused the suspicion of a truck driver, who reported he saw them loafing around after being refused jobs.

Still another clue was furnished by a recent student at the state troopers' training school, who described a car which he said drove away from the Arnall plant Wednesday night.

Police were uncertain whether the thefts were connected with similar robberies in Thomasville and Tifton the night before.

Grim Story Told By War Refugees Returning Home

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—(P)—Grim new stories of death and destruction in war-torn China were told today by the first American refugees to reach here from Shanghai.

About 70 persons who fled Shanghai August 16, two days after the Cathay and Palace hotels were bombed, arrived on the liner President Taft. Some had to abandon baggage in the Oriental metropolis. One was penniless. All had experienced the terror and peril of aerial bombardment.

Most vivid was the story of Dr. I. Levitas, director of education at Kansas City. His tropic helmet bore the mark of a Japanese saber thrust, received while fighting to protect the British concession at Tientsin.

The mild-mannered doctor of philosophy was living alone in Tientsin when machine gun fire broke the news of hostilities.

PAIR BOUND TO JURY ON DISTILLING COUNT

Glover Bradford and J. F. Moore, of Rockdale county, faced federal grand jury investigation on distilling charges yesterday after a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith.

Officers said they arrested the two men after raiding and destroying an illicit distillery in Rockdale county yesterday. Bradford and Moore said they did not own the distillery but were working there. Bonds were set at $500 each.

SURGEON CANCELS GRACE MOORE TRIP

Singer Enters Hospital for Major Operation.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2.—(UP)—Grace Moore, grand opera and screen singer, entered a hospital today for a major surgical operation.

She had planned to leave at the end of the week on a vacation in Europe with her husband, Valentine Parera, but postponed the trip until next spring after her physician recommended an immediate operation.

The nature of the operation was not disclosed, but it was said she probably would remain in the hospital about three weeks. The operation is to be performed within the next few days.

GEORGIA BOOSTERS WILL MEET TONIGHT

Citizens' Fact-Finding Plan
To Be Launched for Year's Campaign.

MACON, Ga., Sept. 2.—(P)—Heads of 14 state organizations jointly promoting the Citizens' Fact-Finding Movement, a 12-month program to give citizens authoritative information about the state, will formally open the movement at a dinner here tomorrow night.

Miss Emily Woodward, author of "Empire," who was selected as the authority for "Georgia—Past and Present," the subject to be considered during the first month of the program, will be the honor guest. She will speak briefly.

Jerome N. Moore, first vice president of the Georgia Press Association, will serve as chairman. Stanley A. Elkan, governor of Georgia District C, Lions International, has charge of arrangements.

A chairman for the October meeting will be chosen. To the approximately 5,000 local units of the organizations participating in the movement, factual material on "Georgia—Past and Present," together with a bibliography for additional reference, will be sent.

Governor Rivers recently endorsed the movement.

CHILD SLAYING IS CONFESSED

24-Year-Old Man Held in Death Probe.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—(UP)—Police Captain James F. Daley late today announced that a Cambridge youth had confessed to the sex-murder last October of 5-year-old Chester Harris, curly haired Cambridge twin.

Daley said the youth had identified himself as Joseph Pimintal, 24, when he was arrested late yesterday on a charge of molesting and abusing two little girls in Boston.

During intensive questioning this afternoon, Daley asserted, the youth allegedly confessed to the sex-murder of Harris, discovered January 27, when the skeleton remains of the long-missing blond youngster were found in a shallow grave in a hobo jungle within sight of his home.

WALKER 4-H MEMBERS WIN CLUB COMPETITION

MACON, Ga., Sept. 2.—(P)—The Walker county team won first place today in the Georgia 4-H Club dairy demonstration contest, and will receive a free trip to the national dairy show next month in Columbus, Ohio.

Joe Martin and J. W. Capehart won the award for their demonstration of the subject, "The Bull and the Butcher in Building a Dairy Herd." C. W. Wheeler, county agent of Walker, coached the team.

Second place was taken by Emanuel county, with a team composed of Roy Pate Warren and G. L. Claxton, coached by E. M. Varner. Their subject was "Babcock Test for Whole Milk."

Other places were won as follows: Third, DeKalb county, Joe Deal and Joe Fowler, coached by E. P. McGee; fourth, Montgomery county, James Kitchens and Franklin McArthur, coached by W. R. Tye; fifth, Madison county, George Dean and Marvin Sexton, coached by Goss Thomas.

1 KILLED, OTHERS HURT IN RAIL CAR ACCIDENT

LYERLY, Ga., Sept. 2.—One man was fatally injured and several others slightly hurt today when a motor car with a crew of seven left the rails on the Central of Georgia railway near here. Jimmy Robinson, negro, died shortly after the accident. Other members of the crew received cuts and bruises.

HARRY SNODGRASS DIES IN OBSCURITY

Convict Won Freedom by Playing Piano.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 2.—(P)—Harry Snodgrass, whose playing of "It's Three O'Clock in the Morning" brought him radio fame as a penitentiary inmate, died today in obscurity.

In the Jefferson City, Mo., penitentiary more than a decade ago Snodgrass was a piano soloist on radio hookups. Given his freedom and a vaudeville contract in 1925, he was a failure.

Snodgrass came to Springfield, his boyhood home, to play in night clubs.

Dropping out of sight, Snodgrass became ill Monday. A son took him to the home of his former wife, where he died.

FORESTER URGES PINE FOR IMPROVED INCOME

MACON, Ga., Sept. 2.—(P)—

Properly managed timber, District Forester W. G. Wallace said here today, will bring in a comfortable annual or periodical income.

Recent surveys and investigation show, he said, that slash pine raised for naval stores products can be grown profitably in middle Georgia.

"Dr. Charles Herty (director of the pulp experimental laboratories at Savannah) told me that in his opinion middle Georgia has a good possibility of being the naval stores center of the state through planting of slash pine. Slash and long leaf pine are the only sources of naval stores," he declared.

ELECTED TO COUNCIL, CUMMING, Ga., Sept. 2.—Dr.

Marcus Mashburn was elected yesterday to fill the unexpired term of S. P. Porter, who died recently. He was opposed by John D. Black. Councilmen now serving are Mayor Roy P. Otwell, George I. Merritt, M. P. Holbrook, G. M. Puett and B. L. Redd.
